WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—President Harding's dilemma, the rail strike brings a climax in his influence and leadership. Not merely those interested directly in industrial controversies but all who see in the immediate future a test of Mr. Harding's whole administration with respect to Congress are watching the chief executive's every move.

Mr. Harding is by nature a peace maker, patient and tolerant. He is disappointed that the spirit of compromise doesn't pervade disputants as it does his whole philosophy of life. Force and violence may temporarily triumph, but in the end they defeat their own objects—no reason Mr. Harding, with all that has happened since 1914 to vindicate principles vital to civilization, there is an acknowledged feeling of regret that the voice of reason didn't prevail the hand of passion and prevent the great war.

Somebody has to compromise unless a war is fought to a finish and the staggering burdens of the world today cause very little gratification anywhere. Will the industrial crisis be a war to a finish and leave the public vanquished and both sides injured? Even the victor in the World War—France—has cried out that she suffered more than she did the defeated. Mr. Harding's appeal to the railroad executives was based on the idea of saving the American people from further damage by a compromise which might be disastrous to both parties to the dispute, but would prevent suffering to the greatest number.

Necessarily for Further Steps.
Now the President is faced with the necessity of taking a step further in this same line of reasoning. Threats that he will take over the railroads at this time are mere conjecture. Mr. Harding remembers the war administration of railroads and the price the country paid in taxes thereafter.

What is the way out? The feeling is growing here that the solution lies with the United States Railroad Labor Board itself, whose authority the railroads and the workmen have at last pledged themselves to uphold.

The seniority dispute involved "working conditions" under the transportation act of the Labor Board can take jurisdiction over such a dispute of its own motion, or it can obtain jurisdiction after the men go back to work and the inevitable dispute about restoring seniority rights arises.

The Labor Board now has been made supreme. As the "agency of the Government," both parties must respect it once more. It would not be surprising, therefore, if the next move came through the board. The latter could take cognizance of the acceptance by both sides of point No. 1, namely, willingness to obey all decisions of the board. With that as a base, the board can ask the men to return to work and the roads to take them back.

Seniority Not New Issue.
As for the disposition eventually of the seniority question, it is not a new problem. The railroads have again and again in the past restored seniority rights after they had taken on new workers. If the Labor Board decides that the rights should be restored, the railroads would have to obey. There is every reason to believe the roads would obey—it would not require a humiliating reversal of their own motion as might have been the case if they accepted Mr. Harding's proposal outright.

The Labor Board itself has not issued a decision on seniority rights as the railroad executives and their spokesmen would like to have the public infer. Chairman Hooper gave a newspaper interview on the subject, but in view of the peculiar composition of the Labor Board, Hooper does not speak the views of the board. Certainly he did not speak on the seniority question for the three labor members of the board and it is difficult to say whether he spoke for the other two members of the public group on the board.

Board Not Bound.
The matter never came to a vote—it was a personal expression which does not bind the board. It may well happen that Hooper might vote with the three railroad management members on the board, but if the two public members voted with the three labor members the vote would be five to four in favor of restoration of seniority rights. Hooper may be committed by a public statement, but the position of President Harding as expressed in his letter to the railroads and the employees would have great weight in any decision on seniority which might be rendered by the whole board of nine members.

MRS. MOSS AHEAD FOR CONGRESS IN EIGHTH DISTRICT

made thousands of friends. I did not vote in this County, where there is a small Democratic vote, nor Osage County, where Judge Zevely lives, but I will go there in the coming campaign.

"I think this campaign was a triumph for democracy and also showed that the men will vote for a woman if she is properly qualified for office."

When asked her view on prohibition, Mrs. Moss replied: "I am d-r-y," spelling the word. "And I feel confident," she added, "that I shall be the first Congresswoman from Missouri."

Assailed National Administration.
In a speech at Jefferson City, on the capitol steps, July 18, Mrs. Moss vigorously assailed the Republican national administration. She opposed the ship subsidy bill, advocated an income tax, and a tariff that would benefit the country, and said the Middle West has been denied its transportation rights through muddling of river problems.

She has been president emerita of Christian College, an institution for young women, for two years and was its president from 1908. She was born in Illinois in 1885 and was educated at three universities. She was president of Christian College from 1892 to 1897, and president of Hamilton College, Lexington, Ky., from 1897 to 1903. She is interested in women's club work. Since April she has been a member of the Columbia Board of Education.

Mrs. Moss is a widow. She was married twice, and is a sister-in-law of Mrs. E. W. Stephens of Columbia, wife of a publisher.

She is a bitter opponent of Senator Reed and an admirer of former President Wilson.

The St. Louis women who were candidates for Congress were: Mrs. Madeline Menaguet, Democrat, Twelfth District, with two male opponents, and Mrs. Adeline P. Wagner and Miss Anne M. Evans, Republicans. Eleventh District, where a male opponent. There was a nonpartisan woman candidate in Kansas City, Mrs. Sophia Fritz, who withdrew.

RETURNS INDICATE DEFEAT OF RUCKER AND McPHERSON

Two Missouri Congressmen Seeking Renomination Appear to Have Lost; Rucker 4000 Behind.

Defeat in the primary election of two Missouri Congressmen seeking renomination is indicated by partial returns from their districts. Congressman W. W. Rucker, Democrat, of the Second District, and Congressman I. V. McPheron, Republican, of the Fifteenth District, apparently have been defeated.

There were no progressive issues in the races in the various districts. Congressmen endeavoring to retain their offices standing, to a great extent, solely on their records. Their opponents did not bring up issues that appeared to be of national interest.

151 Precincts Heard From.

With 151 out of 191 precincts in the Second District reported, Rucker had 11,835 while Ralph H. Lozier of Carrollton had 15,322.

One hundred and three precincts out of 236 in the Fifteenth District gave McPheron 3986 and Joe J. Manlove of Omark Cabin 5498. McPheron has a possible chance of overtaking Manlove on the face of these figures, as can be seen.

Representative Samuel A. Shelton, Republican, of the Sixteenth District, did not seek renomination.

The Probable Nominees.

On the face of the incomplete unofficial returns, the following are the probable nominees:

First, M. A. Romjue, Democrat; Representative Frank C. Millspaugh, Republican.

Second, Ralph H. Lozier, Democrat; E. Y. Ketter, Republican.

Third, Jacob C. Milligan, Democrat; Representative H. F. Lawrence, Republican.

Fourth, William E. Spratt, Democrat; Representative Charles L. Faust, Republican.

American League, conferred here today, Henry L. Jos. Democrat; Representative E. C. Ellis, Republican.

Sixth, Clement C. Dickinson, Democrat; Representative William O. Atkinson, Republican.

Seventh, Samuel C. Major, Democrat; Representative Roscoe C. Patterson, Republican.

Eighth, Mrs. Moss, Democrat; Representative Sid C. Roach, Republican.

Ninth, Clarence Cameron, Democrat; Representative Theodore W. Hukreide, Republican.

Tenth, A. A. Alexander, Democrat; Representative Cleveland A. Newton, Republican.

Eleventh, Representative Harry Hawes, Democrat; Bernard P. Boyer, Republican.

Twelfth, David Israel, Democrat; Representative L. C. Dyer, Republican.

Thirteenth, J. Scott Wolff, Democrat; Representative Marion E. Rhodes, Republican.

Fourteenth, Gibney Houck, Democrat; Representative Edward D. Hayes, Republican.

Fifteenth, Frank H. Lee, Democrat; Joe J. Manlove, Republican.

BI-PARTISAN BAR TICKET FOR NOVEMBER IS SUGGESTED

Guy A. Thompson, President of Association, Tells of Proposal and Says Special Meeting of Organization Called for Purpose Would Be Necessary.

BOTH PARTY SLATES BROKEN AT PRIMARY

Only Four of Nine Republicans Indorsed Were Nominated and Seven Favored by Democratic Lawyers Were Successful.

Action by the St. Louis Bar Association, looking to the indorsement of a bipartisan ticket of Judges for the November election, has been suggested by some members of the association, according to Guy A. Thompson, president of the organization.

Thompson said today that a special meeting of the Bar Association, called for that purpose, would be necessary in order to take up such a proposal. He said he had heard the suggestion from several quarters before the primary, but did not know whether any considerable number of the members would support such a proposal now.

Both Party Slates Broken.
For Tuesday's primary, the Bar Association had a slate of indorsements of nine Republican candidates for circuit judgeships, made by vote of the Republican lawyers, and a slate of nine Democratic candidates, made by the Democratic lawyers. The unofficial returns yesterday showed that only four of the indorsed Republicans, and seven of the indorsed Democrats were nominated.

The Republicans having the Bar Association indorsement who were nominated were Judges Taylor, Hamilton, Davis and Calhoun. The candidates who won nominations without the indorsement were Judge Falkenhainer, Police Judge Mix, A. P. J. Jones, E. G. Ossing and A. B. Fry.

The Democrats indorsed by the Bar Association who were nominated were W. N. Davis, J. T. Fitzsimmons, Shepard Barclay, S. B. McPherson, R. A. Jones, C. B. Williams and O'Neill Ryan. Those who won without the indorsement, on the unofficial count, were W. S. Connor and M. X. Morris, but Morris is only a few votes ahead of W. N. Sale and H. R. Small, both of whom were indorsed. If the official count should put either Sale or Small ahead of Morris, there would then be eight indorsed candidates on the Democratic ticket.

The Bar Association also indorsed candidates on each ticket for the nominations for the offices of Probate Judge and Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction. The Democratic nomination for Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction was won by former Mayor E. A. Noonan, who did not have the indorsement.

Wouldn't Affect Official Ballot.
All that the Bar Association could do would be to vote on a list of indorsement and make it public. It could not affect the make-up of the official ballot, on which the two lists of candidates will appear under their party captions, without regard to any indorsement.

If the Bar Association should decide to make a slate of indorsements, it could go to the matter either on a nonpartisan or a bipartisan basis. If the nonpartisan plan were followed, the lawyers, regardless of party, would be asked to vote for their selections among the 18 nominees.

The practical difficulty about this would be that the lawyers would tend to favor those of their own party, and as Republican lawyers are the more numerous, the nonpartisan ticket might be made quite largely Republican.
If the bi-partisan plan were followed, the probable division would be to indorse five Republicans, selected by vote of the Republican lawyers, and four Democrats, selected by vote of the Democratic lawyers. A practical objection to this plan would be that the seven indorsed Democrats who won in the primary were "drafted" by a Bar Association committee, and that, having once drafted and indorsed them, the Bar Association could not very well reject three of them later on. The indorsement of five Republicans would involve indorsing at least one man who was not indorsed in the primary vote. A division of five Democrats and four Republicans would not appear reasonable, in view of the relative primary votes of the two parties.

Special Meeting Necessary.
The Bar Association poll before the primary, President Thompson said, "was held pursuant to a resolution. By a similar resolution, a poll for an indorsement could be conducted before the election, and a number of members have suggested such action. As the next regular meeting of the association is not un-

Woman Held in Chicago, With Jewelry Stolen Here

Mrs. Helen Gordon Herbert, photographed in Chicago after her arrest yesterday. In her hand she holds the stolen jewelry.

WHEN Mrs. Helen Gordon Herbert, 22 years old, who fled from the Claridge Hotel Tuesday within three hours after Mrs. Adele Heli had been robbed of diamonds valued by her at $3830 in her apartment at 2608 Connecticut street was arrested, she was carrying a diamond necklace valued at $2900 and a pair of earrings valued at $1800, which fitted the description of Mrs. Heli's jewelry.

On October, a special meeting would be called to deal with this matter. There is no indication now whether a sufficient number of members will be interested in the matter to call such a meeting.

Analysis of Tuesday's local vote does not make any unqualified showing as to the standing of factions in the Republican party. Collector Koehn, with the support of Mayor Kiel, and running on his official record, had a decisive victory over H. L. Salisbury, backed by the courthouse ring. But John Schmoll, who was backed by the ring, won just a decisive in the Circuit Clerkship contest, and Joseph B. Thomas, a Koehn adherent and householder's leader in the successful fight on Schmoll two years ago, was third, Charles W. Graves running next to Schmoll.

For the Association, Al Thomson, with the Weeke-Goldstein backing, was beaten by Assessor Buder. The ring was also beaten in the nomination of Albert Schweitzer for Prosecuting Attorney, but the reverse result appeared in the victory of Bader for Clerk of the Criminal Court, and the nomination of Ossing for one of the Circuit Judgeships. Former Judge Krueger, one of the defeated "three K's" of two years ago, won a nomination for Alderman by a city-wide vote.

On the whole, it appeared that the incumbents, and the best-known candidates, won, rather than that any particular faction triumphed.
Complete returns of the primary election from the Twelfth Ward today apparently gave Michael J. McGee, 7071 Minnesota avenue, a victory over John J. Phelan, 6015 Virginia avenue, in the race for the Democratic committee.
On the face of returns yesterday, with one precinct missing, Phelan was elected by a plurality of 23 over McGee and Edward Duffy, his two opponents. Returns from the First Precinct gave Phelan 32 and McGee 69, and placed the latter in the lead by nine votes.
The winner will not be definitely determined until the Board of Election Commissioners makes an official canvass of the vote Friday.

SYDNEY, N. S., Aug. 3.—At sunset Friday, on the crest of Beinn Breagh Mountain, the body of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, who died yesterday morning at his summer home, will be buried, in a spot chosen by the inventor of the telephone himself.

Although he was in failing health throughout the summer, and in spite of his 75 years, Dr. Bell had continued his experiments with flying boats until July 18. Another of his many activities that occupied Dr. Bell latterly was his "hereditary studies of speech."

The grave of the venerable scientist is at a point overlooking the town of Baddeck, Cape Breton. The sweeping vista from the mountain top, so admired by Bell, stretches far over the Bras d'Or lakes. Sunset chosen as the moment when the body will be borne forever a part of the sturdy hills, glides the water of the lakes until they are really what their name means—"The Lakes of Arm of Gold."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—President Harding, in a message of condolence sent today to Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell, at Baddeck, N. S., said: "The announcement of your eminent husband's death comes as a great shock to me. In common with all his countrymen, I have learned to regard him as one of the great benefactors of the race and among the foremost Americans of all generations. He will be mourned and honored by mankind everywhere as one who served it greatly, untiringly and unselfishly."

10,000 NEW MEN APPEAL TO BOARD

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Ten thousand shopmen on the Santa Fe, who have formed an association of new employees, today telegraphed Chairman Hooper of the United States Railroad Labor Board demanding that their rights be safeguarded in any settlement of the shopmen's strike. They are entitled, they say, to protection in the seniority rights acquired during the strike.

The message, which was signed by officers of the Santa Fe supervisors, helpers and apprentices of the boilermakers, electricians, sheet metal workers, blacksmiths and carmen's associations and the Stationary Firemen and Oilers Association, declared that failure to redeem the board promises of seniority would be "betrayal of the men who remained loyal."

The crafts struck against decisions of the board, the message said, and to recognize them in preference to employees who remained on the job would destroy faith in the Government, the telegram declared.

PRISONER SAYS HE HELD UP HIGHWAYMAN

Tells Police He Got Jewels From a Man Who Tried to Rob Him.

Jewelry and other articles found on him and later identified as his property by two victims of a hold-up last night came in his possession when he took the articles, together with a revolver, from a highwayman who tried to rob him, detectives of the Laclede District were told when they arrested a man giving his name as Leo Glover, 21 years old, a chauffeur, of 3677 Olive street, near that address, shortly before midnight.

The officers stopped the man when they saw him moving quietly up a driveway separating the Grand-olive apartments, with a revolver in his hand. They searched him and found in his pockets two diamond rings, a wrist watch, bank book and a quantity of money. Asked where he got the articles, Glover at first asserted the officers must have put them in his pockets.

When the policemen denied this, Glover declared he had been stopped a short time before on Spring avenue near Olive street, by a highwayman who held a revolver in one hand and what appeared to be a "billie" in the other. The holdup man, Glover said, marched him into an alley nearby, where Glover suddenly grabbed the contents of each of the robber's hand and ran. When he later examined what he had seized, he said he found the "billie" was the stolen jewelry and $25 in bills, wrapped up in a handkerchief. The articles were in a handkerchief when Glover was arrested.

Within 10 minutes after Glover had been taken to the Laclede avenue station, Joseph A. Lennon of 3555 St. Ferdinand avenue, and Elmer Luehrmann, 3150 Sullivan avenue, reported at the Deer street station that a man had stepped into the rear seat of Lennon's touring car as he and Luehrmann were leaving a motion picture theater near Walton avenue and Delmar boulevard.

Poking a revolver alternately into the ribs of the men in the front seat, the robber forced Lennon to drive a circuitous route to Olive street and Spring avenue. On the way he searched the men and threatened to kill Luehrmann's head "full of lead" when he became talkative. The robber left the car at Spring and Olive, taking with him a wrist watch, a diamond ring, a check book and $15 belonging to Lennon, and a diamond ring and $20, the property of Luehrmann.

Lennon and Luehrmann this morning identified the articles found on Glover as their property. The bank book contained Lennon's name. Neither was able to identify Glover as the man who held them up, saying the robber had been behind them all the time he was in the car.

Glover, when a Post-Dispatch reporter saw him today, had a blackened eye, which he said was caused by one of the policemen striking him at the time of the arrest. Police explained this by saying that the arresting detectives, taking no chances when they saw Glover with the revolver, seized him with force in an effort to disarm him quickly.

Reed's Lead Over Long 6513 With 286 Precincts Out

publicans. It would show incorrect or fraudulent returns by election officials, and would show if election officials had counted for Reed Republican ballots on which his name was written in.

In several Republican counties the vote cast for Reed is far out of proportion to the vote ever cast in a Democratic primary. It is the theory of some of the Long supporters that in such counties it is improbable that Republicans abandoned the Republican candidates for local county offices, and that in such precincts as there were election officials friendly to Reed's candidacy, the voters were permitted to write in Reed's name on the Republican ballot, and such ballots were counted for Reed.

Under the law that practice is illegal. Such votes, if there were any, should have been disregarded by the election officials.

Unusual Total in St. Louis.
In St. Louis, 60,842 votes were cast in the Democratic senatorial primary, an unprecedented number. In other offices the Democratic vote was much less, that for the office of State Superintendent of Schools being 7000 less. This would indicate that there were thousands of voters who did not vote on other contested offices than the Senatorship or that in some precincts Reed's name was written in Republican ballots and counted by the judges. There have been reports, but so far without verification, that this was done in some wards.

In the Republican primary the vote on local offices was within 2000 of the vote for Senator.
In the precincts which reported during last night and this morning, the Reed lead of yesterday was gradually reduced, though not enough to indicate that it would be wiped out. In 670 precincts which have reported since yesterday afternoon, Reed's lead was cut from 12,722 to 7879, a reduction of $4842. There remain only 428 precincts to wipe out this lead, and because of the character of most of the missing precincts there is little probability that Long will pull a large enough vote to overcome it.

Total Vote Exceeded Estimates.
Returns are complete from 61 counties and St. Louis, and are incomplete from 62 counties. The missing precincts are scattered over the State, but a majority are in sparsely settled sections of the Ozark region, and the vote will be small, although the returns from other similar communities have shown Long getting three or four votes to one for Reed.

The total vote in the Democratic primary exceeded the estimates, probably because of the Republican vote in St. Louis. It had been believed the total vote would be about 345,000. With 428 precincts not reported, it has reached 369,616. The Republican returns are not as complete as the Democratic, and are hardly sufficient to judge what the total will be. In 2738 precincts the vote was 228,102.

Mark-Dickey Faction Decisively Beaten in Jackson County.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 3.—The defeat of the Mark-Dickey combine in the Republican primary Tuesday was the most decisive ever inflicted on a party faction in Jackson County, returns from rural Jackson County last night showed. Out of 46 members of the County Committee, the faction was able to elect only eight. The anti-faction forces carried 14 of the 16 wards in Kansas City and got a split in other wards. Several of the seven townships went anti-faction, and in another the boss forces were able to elect only one of the two committees.

Reed Withholds Statement on Primary Returns.
By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 3.—Senator James T. Reed refused to make a statement last night on the election returns which had arrived. Senator Reed declared that he could not be expected to make any comment until the issue had been definitely settled.

"I wish that it would be soon," he said, his voice hoarse with the strain laid upon it by the heavy campaigning which characterized his struggle against his opponent, Breckinridge Long.

The Senator retired early at a local hotel.

McCawley Nominated for State Senate by Jasper County Democrats.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CARTHAGE, Mo., Aug. 3.—A. L. McCawley of Carthage was nominated by the Democrats for the State Senate from the Twenty-eighth District, comprising Jasper County, in the primary Tuesday, and will oppose Judge Howard Gray, also of Carthage, uncontested Republican candidate for re-election in November. McCawley aided in drafting several measures advocated by Gov. Hyde and passed at the last session of the Legislature.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 3.—"I think the election campaign in all parts of the State worked hard and conscientiously to get the best election judges possible and the election was one of the cleanest in the State's history," Governor Hyde said today commenting on the Missouri primary of Tuesday.

"I will have nothing to say officially until after the final results have been tabulated and are known. If there are any complaints they will be investigated," the Governor added.

NATIONALISTS CAPTURE CASHEL
Advancing on Clonmel Where De Valera is Making Headquarters.
By the Associated Press.
DUBLIN, Aug. 3.—Further progress for the Irish National Army in its drive against the irregulars in the south, is reported in a message from Thurles today which says the town of Cashel has been captured by the nationalists. The fall of Tipperary enabled the Free State forces to advance on Clonmel, thus paving the way to a further advance on Clonmel. The irregulars' stronghold where Eamon de Valera is making his headquarters, in Dublin isolated disorders are continuing.

GIRL ADMITS LURING SOLDIER TO ROBBERY

Three Men Arrested on Her Story After Holdup of Man From Barracks.

On the confession of Lela Keisley, 18 years old, of 1313 South Seventh street, that she had acted as the lure in the robbery of Nebraska Cauthen, a soldier of M Company, Sixth Infantry, Jefferson Barracks, at Eleventh and Hickory streets, last night, three men have been arrested. They are Charles Plant, 19, of 519 South Broadway; Edmond Selph, 19, of 1015 Hickory street, and a third man, who owned the revolver used in the holdup.

The girl told the story of the hold-up to Capt. Kirk and Detective Sergeant Carroll at the Souldard street station this morning. She and her sweetheart, Plant, were out of money, she said, and she was told to find a man "with lots of money" and lead him to Eleventh and Hickory streets, where the youths were to rob him. She fitted with Cauthen at the entrance of a theater at Eleventh and Hickory streets, and after the show walked with him.

The remark, "lend me a pin," from the girl was the cue for the two to hold up Cauthen. The soldier had told the girl he had $30, but the robbers got only 48 cents of this because of the resistance by Cauthen. The girl said she cried, "Don't shoot him" when one of the men, during the fight, threatened to fire.

On Cauthen's description the girl was arrested at her home at 1 a. m. today. She is held at the House of Detention.

Selph admitted to police that he had a record, and that he was paroled following a five-year sentence to the Booneville Reformatory for robbery of a bakery.

FRIDAY'S PROGRAM

4:00 P. M.

Market reports and news bulletins.
Music program—Edison selections.
Recital of vocal music and readings by Mrs. Arthur V. Mahoney, soprano, and Miss Rosalie Pehlig, reader; Miss Marie J. Robyn, accompanist.
Knabe piano used.

So varied a program was broadcast by Radio Station K S D last night that the musical tastes of almost everybody was pleased, if reports received by telephone, both local and long distance, are an indication. The telephone in the K S D studio rang almost continuously during the evening, and everybody spoke in the most commendatory way of the performance.

The Aco Dance Orchestra, an aggregation of overseas veterans, former members of A Company, 138th (St. Louis) Infantry, gave the jazz part of the program, and several members of the orchestra presented other numbers as well. One of these was the ever-popular Melody in F of Rubinstein, which was played as a piano-violoncello trio by Miss Vera Budde, Terrell Connors and William E. Tebeau, and another was the old song, "Home Sweet Home," arranged as a fantasia, which was added to the regular program at the request of an invalid in a nearby hospital whose only pleasure now is listening in to the concerts coming to his radio receiving set. Following the orchestra program several piano selections were broadcast.

The program this evening will be largely vocal. Miss Mona Smith, soprano, will be the artist of the evening. There also will be a short piano recital, and the usual broadcasting of the day's baseball scores.

Last night after ten o'clock I heard a concert from your station. The music came in plain and if it hadn't been for the static I would have heard all of it.

J. M. Kinsburgh, Kintore, Ontario, Canada.

From New Orleans, La.

Your program was thoroughly enjoyed by the members of my family Tuesday night between the hours of 9 and 10. The particular gem of the concert was the solo "Farewell" which was almost equalled by the piano playing of the leader of the St. Louis orchestra. I was unable to pick up the announcements clearly owing to the static which of course was purely a local condition with us. We hope to have the pleasure of hearing your station frequently from this time on.

Herbert M. Shilstone, Director Radio Engineering Co., 303 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

Last Thursday I heard you broadcasting a comic opera—the last part of act two and all of act three, until you signed off about 11:45 eastern time. I believe the distance is approximately 1100 miles. I have heard concerts from most of the stations of consequence, but I will go on record that your program was unquestionably the best I have ever listened to. The modulation was perfect.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Secrecy thrown about District Attorney Banton's investigation of the death of six persons as a result of eating luncheon Monday in the Shellburn restaurant at 1127 Broadway, added today to the mystery of the presence of arsenic in pie crusts and possibly other foods served at that meal. No additional deaths were reported, but at least 13 of the 100 or more persons made ill by the poisoned food are still suffering from the effects of the arsenic. Banton said he had received telephone calls from many persons who said they had been very ill, although they had not eaten any of the pie. One, reported dangerously ill, had eaten only a sandwich.
It was pointed out, however, that the dough in which it is believed the poison was placed might have been used in rolls, also. Nearly all of the 25 employees of the restaurant were reported ill.

Nobody is under arrest in connection with the poisoning. Banton reiterated that Charles Abramson, the baker, who quit the Shellburn restaurant voluntarily the Saturday before the poisoning, is, in his opinion,
"honest and altogether normal."

For hours yesterday Banton and his assistants questioned Louis Freedman, assistant baker to Abramson. Freedman was released without being placed under bail.

It has been definitely established by chemical analysis that the arsenic was in the dough.

In the window of the restaurant is a sign announcing a reward of $1000 for information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons guilty of the poisoning.

EDITOR APPARENTLY NOMINATED BY REPUBLICANS IN KANSAS

W. Y. Morgan, Industrial Court Law
Adherent, 10,000 Ahead in Race for Governorship.

By the Associated Press.
TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 3.—With returns from Tuesday's election available from approximately 75 per cent of the State today, W. Y.
Morgan, Hutchinson editor, is leading ex-Governor W. R. Stubbs of Lawrence for the Republican nomination for the Governorship by about 10,000 votes.

Morgan favored the Industrial Court law, while Stubbs believed that the Industrial Court should be made an adjunct of the State Supreme Court.

Miss Elizabeth Wooster, who had been State Superintendent of Schools for two years, apparently was defeated for renomination on the Republican ticket by Jess Miloy, president of the State Teachers' Association. Miloy was leading by about 12,000 votes. Miss Wooster became well known for her reforms. Recently a clash arose because she was alleged to have held up a teacher's certificate because a dance was permitted in a school building.

Kansas' eight Representatives in Congress, all Republican, sought re-nomination. Three were without opposition in their party; four were renominated by substantial plurali-ties, but Phil Campbell, member for 20 years from the Third District, and chairman of the powerful Rules Committee, lost out to W. H. Sprout of Sedan.

STUTZ CONTROL BOUGHT BY THE GUARANTY TRUST CO.

Transaction Perfunctory Among Banks Holding Collateral Against Loans to A. A. Ryan.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Control of the Stutz Automobile Co. passed yesterday to the Guaranty Trust Co., at a perfunctory public auction permitting banks to sell collateral held against loans to Allan A. Ryan and to buy it in. Whether the Guaranty's acquisition of the Stutz control was at the instance of Thomas Fortune Ryan, with the ultimate object of restoring his bankrupt son to power in that concern did not appear.

Altogether, the entire auction yielded approximately $3,000,000, or only about a quarter of the amount needed to cover the $14,000,000 in debts to the banks. But as the banks bought the bulk of the collateral and the sale was nominal, no estimate was possible of how much they will ultimately get back on the loans.

The Guaranty gobbled up 132,914 shares of Stutz, nearly two-thirds of the amount outstanding, at $20 a share. The only other lot offered was 1500 shares and went to the Empire Trust Co. at the same price. Accordingly $2,683,000 of the $3,000,000 auction return was derived from the sale of Stutz.

Right to the proceeds of the sale of Ryan's seat on the Stock Exchange also went to the Guaranty for $13,000. It came to light that the seat had previously been sold for $28,000, but the money and interest were assigned to the Guaranty as part of its collateral. Similarly, nearly $500,000 of accounts receivable of Allan A. Ryan & Co. went to the Guaranty for the nominal sum of $28,000.

The Lawyers' Title and Trust, Chase National, Mechanics and Merchants Trust and others whose collateral was auctioned off with that of the Guaranty. They did not appear in the bidding, but it was said the Guaranty acted for them in the purchase of some of the securities.

CHICAGO MAYOR CONSIDERING MUNICIPAL BUS SYSTEM PLAN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 2.—The first of "the people's ownership and five-cent fare" buses was placed in operation yesterday by Mayor Thompson as the complete tie-up of the city's electric transportation facilities through a strike of 25,000 street railway and elevated employees continued.

The Mayor declared that he had an option on a fleet of trucks in New York at 50 cents on the dollar and asked the corporation counsel for an opinion as to the legality of the city taking a $10,000,000 traction fund now in its hands to install a municipally-owned bus transportation system similar to those in New York, London and Paris.

On the first day of the strike was marked by less congestion than was noted Tuesday, approximately 150,000 motor vehicles moving hundreds of thousands of passengers to and from work with apparent ease.

DIVORCE GRANTED IN PARIS TO MRS. MONTAGUE FLAGG

Former Miss Thyra Benson, Wealthy Heiress, Was Married to Architect Nine Years Ago.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Just before Miss Thyra Benson was married to Montague Flagg, an architect, nine years ago, his discovery that she possessed millions of her own and was heiress to more caused a temporary break that nearly ended their engagement. Yesterday, cable advices from Paris reported that Mrs. Flagg had obtained a divorce there.

In 1913, Flagg, a cousin of James Montgomery Flagg, the artist, met Miss Benson at a house party. As the daughter of Frank Benson of Brooklyn and the granddaughter of Robert Hoe of printing-press fame, the girl had found that her money was something of a handicap so far as desirable young men were concerned.

So when she met Flagg he only knew that she was an attractive young woman who loved and appreciated art and probably could afford leisure no better than he could.

But when Flagg heard of her wealth, he went at once to tell Miss Benson that wealth and poverty should not marry. But a couple of weeks afterward, there was an elu-brate wedding in Grace Church, Brooklyn, and Montague Flagg and Thyra Benson were the principals.

Mr. and Mrs. Flagg announced that their future home was to be just such another simple cottage as that in which they had met. The money, the quiet little retreat in the country, and even the Flagg themselves, were heard of no more until Mrs. Flagg went to Paris and obtained a divorce.

WOMAN'S AUTO KILLS HER CHILD

Machine, Backing Out of Garage, Crushes Daughter.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Aug. 3.—
The 18-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelle Calloway was instantly killed yesterday afternoon when an automobile driven by the mother passed over the head of the child. Mrs. Calloway was backing the car out of the garage. Death was instantaneous.

Killed by Stray Shot From Fight.

By the Associated Press.
NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 3.—
One white man was killed and two negro railroad employees badly beaten as a result of a fight between one of the negroes and a crew of white men in Algiers, a New Orleans suburb, late yesterday. John Mercier, night foreman of an Algiers train works was struck and killed by a stray bullet said to have been fired by Joseph Stevens, negro cook at the Southern Pacific Railroad shops, after the latter had been attacked at Algiers Ferry Landing.

Mercier was on his way to work and did not participate in the clash.

Reader Takes Newer Form of Iron—Feels Years Younger

"Six weeks ago I saw a special offer in the paper telling how thousands of people grow old in looks and energy long before they are really old in years. Because, as examinations by physicians have shown, an enormous number of people do not have enough iron in their blood. I have been taking Nuxated Iron for two weeks; the results are simply astounding. The roses have come back in my lips and cheeks, and I can conscientiously say that I feel ten years younger."

The above is a typical hypothetical case showing the results that have been achieved by a great many people since we started this "satisfaction or money back" offer on Nuxated Iron. We will make you the same guarantee. If, after taking the two weeks' treatment of Nuxated Iron, you do not feel and look years younger, we will promptly refund your money.

Call at once for a bottle of Nuxated
Iron at Wolf-Wilson Drug Co., Judge &

ALL-DAY CONTEST IN BALLOTING MARKED HART'S K. OF C. VICTORY

Close Fight for Office of Supreme Advocate of Order Finally Is Lost by Insurgents.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 3.—Administration forces emerged victoriously yesterday afternoon with the battle with the insurgents for the control of the International Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus meeting in convention at the Ambassador Hotel when Luke E. Hart of St. Louis was elected Supreme Advocate over Thomas J. Mulligan of Thompsonville, Conn., the candidate of the insurgents.

The battle over the office started early yesterday morning and lasted until late afternoon, Hart nosing out his opponent by a vote of 165 1/2 to 144. He carried with him the administration slate of six candidates for the International Board of Directors. The latter are John F. O'Neill of New Jersey, William D. Dwyer of St. Paul, George H. Bolvin of Grandy, Quebec, member of the Canadian House of Commons; Patrick H. Rice of Augusta, Ga.; John H. Reddin of Denver and Wm. C. Prout of Boston, president of the A. A. U.

The fight, however, centered about the post of Supreme Advocate which was declared vacant when Joseph C. Pelletier of Boston resigned.

The report of Supreme Secretary W. J. McGinley showed $394 members have been added to the order in the last year and $2,195,559.75 to its financial assets. New York leads the other states in the number of members.

Announcement was made at the convention last night that a professor, Samuel F. Benis of Whitman College, a Presbyterian institution at Walla Walla, Wash., had won the $300 Knights of Columbus national history prize. His monograph was on the Jay Treaty.

ST. LOUIS ARCHITECT TO DESIGN LOUISIANA U. BUILDINGS

Award to Theodore C. Link Protested Against by Committee From New Orleans.

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 3.—By unanimous vote, the Board of Administrators of the Louisiana State University and Greater Agricultural College yesterday selected Theodore C. Link of St. Louis as the architect to supervise the construction of the new buildings to be erected on the university site south of Baton Rouge.

Link has supervised the construction of many buildings in this country, among them the new Capitol of Mississippi at Jackson. A few years ago he remodeled the old Capitol of Mississippi at Jackson, turning it into an office building for State departments.

A committee of five New Orleans architects representing the Louisiana chapter of the American Institute of Architects appeared before the Greater Agricultural College Building Committee here and registered emphatic protest.

The committee included Victor Wogan, chairman; Rathbone Debuys, Allison Owen, Leon Weiss and Charles Favrot. Each member gave a short talk. Mrs. Josephine Suchy, a short talk. The theme of each being that selection of an out-of-state man would cast reflection on all the State architects.

TRIES TO KILL BLACK DOG FOR WHITE ONE'S BITE AND IS FINED

Man Arrested on Peace Disturbance Charge When He Appears at Neighbor's Home With Revolver.

William Poppa Jr. of Birkner Station, near Belleville, had to pay $5 and costs yesterday in a Belleville Justice court for trying to kill an indubitably black dog for the misdoings of a presumptively white dog.

After Poppa had been attacked by some kind of a dog he procured his revolver and presented himself at the home of Mrs. Josephine Suchy and announced that he had come to shoot her white dog for biting him. Mrs. Suchy said it couldn't possibly have been her white dog because the only white dog she had was black. Poppa said well, anyway, he had been assaulted by Mrs. Suchy's dog and if it wasn't white it should be, and insisted upon killing it. Mrs. Suchy stood by her black dog and had Poppa arrested. He was fined for disturbing the peace.

ROBBERY WARRANTS FOR THREE

Men Caught After Pistol Fight Said to Have Made Confessions.

Warrants charging robbery were issued yesterday for Walter Holub, 19 years old, of 1441 North Twentieth street; Lawrence Tucker, 19, of 7238 Southwest avenue, and Carl Kuesner, 25, of 1492 Hodiamont avenue, who, police say, have confessed to the robbery of seven Kroger groceries within three weeks and holding up three automobiles. They were captured Tuesday following a chase from a Kroger store at Virginia avenue and Chippewa street, from which $85 was stolen. The fugitives opened fire upon their pursuers, and a bullet struck Policeman David Schmidt in the left leg. It was stopped by a plug of chewing tobacco.

LIQUOR ISSUE LOOMS AS BIG FACTOR AT MICHIGAN POLLS

Anti-Dry Organization Prepared to Press Fight in Political Campaigns.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 3.—The wet and dry question is expected to play a leading part in political dramas in Michigan this year.

Decision of the Michigan division of the National Association Opposed to Prohibition not to submit to the voters next fall a proposed amendment permitting the sale of beer and light wines within the State in the event of the Volstead act's modification, leaves this organization free to press its fight in the various senatorial, congressional and legislative campaigns, it was indicated.

The Anti-Saloon League recently announced that the dries were busy checking the record of every candidate for public office and would make a flat-footed declaration concerning the league's stand on each candidate some time before the days set for balloting. Declarations are expected within a short time.

Whether any candidates will seek office on a wet platform remains to be seen. It was rumored in State political circles for a time that such would be the case, but to date no candidate has come out openly on the proposition.

Robert Wardell of Detroit, secretary of the anti-prohibition association, announced that his organization would make a concerted effort to send several wet advocates to Congress from Michigan. At the same time this faction will attempt to drive a wedge into the State Legislature, it was said.

Ceremony Follows Divorce Obtained
July 24 by Wife of Former Dean of Yale Art School.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Prof. William Sargent Kendall, former dean of the Yale School of Fine Arts, and Miss Christine Herter of New York, a well-known artist and a graduate of the Yale school, were married yesterday at the home of Miss Herter's sister, Mrs. Henry Drysdale Dakin, Scarborough-on-Hudson.

Dean Kendall declared July 24 that a cable dispatch from Paris, announcing that his wife, Mrs. Margaret Western Stickney Kendall, had obtained a divorce "there was a shock and a puzzle" to him and insisted he had no idea what prompted her action.

A license to wed was issued to Dean Kendall and Miss Herter late Tuesday night. At Mrs. Dakin's home it was admitted the ceremony took place there, but all other information was refused.

Miss Herter has won many honors, notably a prize given by the National Academy of Design in April, 1916, and the National Arts Club prize, awarded last April by the National Association of Women Painters and Sculptors, for her picture,
"The Lady in Gray."

Prof. Kendall is one of the best known artists in America, his "Psyche" in the Metropolitan Museum being one of his best works.
He resigned as dean of the Yale Art School March 28, saying that he was going to the country to engage in painting.

Obregon to Take Rest.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3.—President Obregon expects to leave at the end of the week for Monterey for two or three weeks' recuperation, says El Mundo today. The newspaper asserts that the President is much improved in health, but that he requires a much needed rest.

POLICE SHOOT NEGRO ROBBER, RECOVER $990

Patrolmen Pursue Highwaymen
When Attracted by Cries of Man Being Beaten.

Policemen, attracted by the outcry of a man being robbed by two negroes, pursued the negroes from the scene and shot and captured one. It happened that he was the one carrying $990 stolen from Obrem T. Mijonovich, 35 years old, of 2833 Chouteau avenue, his life savings. Mijonovich was attacked as he was crossing the Ranken tract west of the Compton avenue viaduct on his way home from work yesterday at 4:30 p. m. He carried the money, which was in currency, in an inside coat pocket. The negroes beat him about the head and one of them obtained the money just as three policemen who were on strike duty in the railroad yards came up. Patrolmen Meyer and Somers followed one of the negroes, firing four shots. The negro fell, wounded in the right thigh. In his pocket they found a package containing $990, which Mijonovich claimed. The police retained $900 for evidence. The negro said that he was Thomas Gray, 27, of 506 South Garrison avenue. He carried an extra cap in a coat pocket. The other negro, pursued by the third patrolman, escaped.

400 OF BANKRUPT FIRM'S 1600 CREDITORS ATTEND MEETING

Oliver M. Blackinton Named as Trustee for Security Manufacturing Co.
Four hundred of 1600 creditors of the Security Manufacturing Co., 415 North Eighth street, filed the United States District Court room this morning to attend a meeting at which Oliver M. Blackinton was elected trustee for the company which had been declared bankrupt Dec. 10, 1931, on petition of three of its creditors. Referee Coles presided. The three petitioners, together with the amounts which they alleged to be due them, are the Eisenstadt Manufacturing Co., $250; M. Bauman Co., $195.50, and the George H. Bowman Co., $50. The last-named two companies are of New York. The majority of creditors who attended the meeting had paid money to the Security Manufacturing Co. on the promise to deliver clothing and household goods. The goods never were delivered. The liabilities of the bankrupt company were listed at $48,000 and the assets at $5471.

SOURCE OF SPURIOUS NOTES HERE DISCOVERED IN NEW YORK

Five Arrested and Outfit Seized; Agents Said to Have Come to St. Louis From Detroit.
With the arrest in New York yesterday of five men and the confiscation of a counterfeiting outfit, the source of spurious $5, $10 and $20 notes passed in St. Louis the last two weeks has been discovered, according to Stephen A. Connell, head of the local Secret Service Bureau of the Treasury Department. Two Italians were acting as agents for the New York gang, according to Connell, and came here from Detroit. About 25 counterfeit bills are in the possession of local officers. The counterfeit bills were reproductions of national bank notes of the First National Bank of Ozone Park, N. Y. Most of the bills here have been passed in small retail stores.

OPERA STAGE NOW AN ICE RINK, ORCHESTRA PIT A DIVING POOL

The stage at the Municipal Theater has been converted into an ice rink and the orchestra pit into a diving pool for the eighth annual St. Louis Fashion Pageant, which will open tonight, continuing nightly through Aug. 16, except on Sunday nights. On the ice an expanse 75 by 30 feet a troupe of skaters will present a winter carnival and in the diving pool a group of women swimmers will re-enact on an elaborated scale the diving scene of last year's pageant. Dress rehearsal was held last night with a smoothness that satisfied the directors.

ADVERTISING RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every Druggist in this country is authorized to sell to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenbur's, the sure cure of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without question. Allenbur's has been tried and tested for years and its results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless. Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenbur's, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenbur's decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. All druggists can supply you.

MARK DOWN: PANIC ON BOURSE

French Ultimatum Causes People to Storm Banks.
BERLIN, Aug. 2.—A panic on the bourse, a run on banks that forced the mark down to 800 to the dollar and an orgy of buying was the immediate effect of Premier Poincaré's demand that Germany pay 40,000,000 gold marks for private debts to French nationals by Aug. 15 or submit to sanctions.

GREEK MAIDENS, WOODED BY MAIL

ARRIVE TO WED UNSEEN YOUTHS

Nearly 200 of Them Greeted in New York Harbor by Bridegrooms in Motorboats.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Greek maidens—nearly 200 of them—bearing gifts and dressed in the gaudy "Sunday best" of the Athenian sister of the flapper, "picture brides" whose wooing had all been done by mail, have arrived. They had the first glimpses of the men they are to marry as the crowd of eager bridegrooms circled the ship in motorboats. Many of the "picture brides" brought gifts for their unmet matrimonial partners. One brought a saddle, for a husband who chanced to be a Kansas farmer. Unfortunately he will not require it in his jaunts, as he rides in an automobile.

No difficulty is expected in permitting the entrance of the members of the hymeneal argosy, as quotas from Greece allowed by the immigration restriction act are as yet unfilled.

APPEALS BY ASSASSINS OF

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The Court of Criminal Appeals today heard and dismissed the appeals of Joseph O'Sullivan and Reginald Dunn, under sentence of death for the assassination of Field Marshal Wilson. The appellants were not present at the hearing.

PRAYERS FOR LORD NORTHCLIFFE

Mother Requests Parish to Pray for Publisher's Recovery.

(Copyright, 1922.)
LONDON, Aug. 2.—Lord Northcliffe's mother has requested that prayers be offered daily in the Barrow Church Parish for the recovery of her son, it became known today. Lord Northcliffe has always been most devoted to Mrs. Harmsworth and she to him. The Rev. Worsley Boden, in asking for the prayers of the congregation for the publisher's recovery, said today there was no disguising the fact that Lord Northcliffe is in a serious condition. If this illness should end fatally or the great editor should be permanently incapacitated, it is understood his brother, Lord Rothermere, would probably be trustee for the estate. Second Harmsworth, the publisher's nephew and an M. P., would, it is believed, become a leading figure in the Northcliffe organization.

SIX SONS ACT AS PALLBEARERS

They Bear Mother's Body to Grave as She Had Requested.

In accordance with the wishes of Mrs. Margaret Close, who died Tuesday at Edwardsville, her body was borne to the grave Thursday afternoon by her six sons: Oscar, and Harold, of Edwardsville; Charles, Hillsboro; William, Alton; Thomas, Wood River; and Ulah, Collinsville. Mrs. Close was a native of Nashville, Tenn., and was 62 years old.

U. S. LEADS IN LETTER WRITING

Postal Statistics Show 112 Letters to Each Citizen on Per Capita Basis.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Every citizen of the United States would have received 112 letters last year if the aggregate letters mailed that passed through the hands of the Postoffice Department was divided on a per capita basis.

A statistician in the department has estimated that 11,335,000,000 letters went through the mails last year. Comparing this total with postal records of foreign countries, the department's expert announced that Great Britain had a "per capita exchange" of 84, Germany 25 and Italy 24.

NEW SILVER FIND IN ALBERTA

By the Associated Press.

FITZGERALD, Alberta, via Fort Murray, Aug. 2.—A find of silver in the barren lands northeast of here has been made which, it is said, will be at least on a par with the silver mines of Northern Ontario, according to word just received here.

The report is substantiated by samples of silver ore, brought here by a prospector. The ore was gone.

All Members of Institute of Politics Except French Agree on Need for Cutting Down Reparations.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 2.

Paul M. Warburg told the Institute of Politics yesterday that if he had his way he would abolish interest charges on England's debt to America. The discussions, both of the rehabilitation of Europe under the chairmanship of Warburg and of allied indebtedness under the former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Oscar T. Crosby, became more than ordinarily intense because of the presence of American, French and British representatives.

In dealing with interrelated indebtedness, Crosby raised the question whether England would in the future use her acquisition of the German colonies to discriminate against American goods. Dr. Joseph H. H. Heller, former Austrian Finance Minister, spoke for Austrian reparations and Lionel Curtis and Philip Kerr for England.

Warburg makes a distinction between England's position in respect to her indebtedness to United States and that of other countries. He thinks England should pay in full, but that part at least of France's and Italy's debts should be canceled.

"When I was in England recently," said Warburg, "I found English financial men took pride in being able to meet their obligations. They wished to be thought of as able to meet their debts. England has been the world's teacher in banking, and the world's teacher in trade, and Englishmen are unwilling to do anything to spoil their position."

Must Have Plenty of Time. But England, in Warburg's opinion, must be given plenty of time to pay.

The idea that England must redeem her debts in 25 years, he continued, "and meanwhile pay interest at 4 1/2 per cent leads to an impossible situation. Let England stop to pay within a certain time, but if she finds herself unable to do so, she should be given a further period."

Warburg stated that he was led to believe that England still held very large sums in foreign securities, probably amounting to $16,000,000,000.

Dr. Redlich, for Austria, said recent international conference blamed the treaty of Versailles for breaking up Europe's economic unity by artificial political divisions but Philip Kerr disagreed on the grounds that the political divisions already existed in the Austro-Hungarian empire.

All the members of the Institute, except the French, agreed upon the necessity for scaling down the amount of reparations payments due from Germany. American, French and British speakers took the position that the reduction of Germany's liability depends upon the merit in French eyes of the proposition that may be made. Attention was called during the debate to statements in the New York World advocating the reduction of debts, the reduction of reparations. This was welcomed by the speaker, James G. MacDonald, as highly significant of the drift of public opinion.

Schemes Got Scant Praise. The rehabilitation schemes advocated by Frank A. Vanderlip, Senator Hitchcock and Senator Owen received scant praise from Warburg, who said about them:

"Without wishing today to discuss the ultimate value of any of the plans suggested, the Owen and Hitchcock foreign exchange banks, and Mr. Vanderlip's national Federal reserve plan, are dealing with issues in which the chicken is to be served before the poor bird has been hatched. Neither Russia, Austria, Germany nor France (nor Italy for that matter) could be saved by the sole remedy of gold loans, or other operations for steadying their exchange, unless underlying conditions are first straightened out. It has been well said that to try to cure the patient by fusing with foreign exchange is like trying to break a fever by blowing upon the thermometer."

Crosby told how, on many occasions America injured herself by lending money, and how the money was constantly used for the strengthening of England's position. American found, he asserted, that we were lending money to produce goods which then met the output of our own manufacturers in the fields of competition.

Crosby's Stand in Matter. Crosby takes the following stand

Text of Shopmen's Message Accepting Harding's Peace Plan

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3. FOLLOWING is the text of the message sent to President Harding by leaders of the striking railway shopmen, accepting the President's proposals for ending the strike:

"The representatives of the employees feel themselves under obligation to support every proper effort on the part of operation of the transportation industry. The stubborn refusal of the railway executives to establish a board of adjustment, as contemplated by law, in order to settle efficiently disputes over rules and working conditions between the carriers and their employees; the continued refusal of railways, representing over a quarter of a mileage of the transportation industry, to comply with the decisions of the Railroad Labor Board against the practice of contracting out work and shops; the persistent campaign to deny to the railway employees just and reasonable wages; to impose upon them unfair working conditions and to disintegrate their organizations; all in cumulative effect rendered service by railway employees under the terms and conditions to be effective July 1, 1922, intolerable to over 95 per cent of these employees who, therefore, voted to suspend work."

"It is now proposed that they return to work, temporarily accepting wages and working conditions which they feel to be unjust with reliance upon the following program for redress of grievances:

"First, railway managers and workmen are to agree to recognize the validity of the decisions of the Railroad Labor Board, and to faithfully carry out such decisions as contemplated by law."

Employees' Position. "The employees have always taken the position that as long as they continued to render service they should abide by the rules and working conditions and accept the wages agreed upon by proper negotiation or determined by the Labor Board after hearing of a dispute upon any of these matters. They respectfully point out again that violations of law and refusal to comply with decisions of the Labor Board have been exhibited only by the railway management, and that it has been universally admitted that the employees, in exercising their right to suspend work under nonacceptable conditions, were neither violating the law nor the decisions of the board."

"We understand that the recognition of the validity of all decisions of the Railroad Labor Board—as contemplated by the law, means, for example, that in the case of the Pennsylvania Railroad all employees will return to work under the wages and working conditions established by the board, and that the Labor Board and that the sole question of 'validity' pending is the authority of the Labor Board to determine, as in decision No. 218, the method of selecting accredited representatives of the employees, assuming that the railroad has appealed from the decisions of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which sustained the action of the Labor Board."

"The carriers will withdraw all lawsuits growing out of the strike, and the Railroad Labor Board will decide which have been involved in the strike may be taken, in the exercise of recognized rights by either party, to the Railroad Labor Board for rehearing."

Call Attention to Discipline. "It is our understanding that the representatives of the employees, upon seeking a rehearing of the controverted decisions concerning wages and working conditions, will be afforded a prompt rehearing and decision by the Labor Board. We assume also that the practically unanimous action of the employees in electing to suspend work and in continuing this suspension under the sanction of, and accordance with laws of their national organizations, has ended any capricious questioning as to who are the properly accredited spokesmen of the vast majority of railway employees. We desire to call attention to the orderly and disciplined conduct of these employees under difficult conditions, which has demonstrated the value of their national organizations in aid of the effective adjustment of the controversies and the efficient conduct of the industry."

Third, all employees now on strike to be returned to work and to their former positions with seniority and other rights unimpaired. The representatives of the carriers and of the organizations especially agree that there will be no discrimination by either party against employees who did or did not strike."

"We are glad to observe that the obvious justice of this proposition has been accepted. It would certainly be a wholesale instance of unparalleled extent if hundreds of thousands of experienced men who have given four to 40 years' service, and whose value to the transportation industry is proportionate to the length of their service, had been placed in a position of inferiority to a limited number of men who have been employed as substitutes for these experienced railroad workers. The demand that such a wrong should be perpetrated, as a penalty against men who have exercised a fundamental and admitted right not to render service under nonacceptable conditions was so unfair that we could not believe it would receive the sanction of any impartial judgment."

Striking Employees Defined.

"We understand the language 'all employees now on strike' to include all employees who hold seniority rights under the rules agreed upon between the carriers and the organizations of employees or as promulgated by the United States Railroad Labor Board."

"It should be understood that in acting favorably upon these proposals for settlement of the pending controversies, the representatives of the organized employees feel that they are making concessions and sanctioning sacrifices on the part of the employees which entitle them to the highest consideration and to recognition as law-abiding American citizens, who are willing to do all in their power, even beyond that which is strictly reasonable, in order to promote industrial peace and to prevent the uninterrupted flow of the commerce of the nation."

"We see evidence of little sacrifice required on the part of the managements to whom like proposals have been submitted. They will suffer a loss in abandoning a host of futile lawsuits, complaining of wrongs which have never been committed. It is understood that the Labor Board must confirm its previously announced position, and that the railways must abandon the condemned practice of contracting out work and shops and that the employees must return to their former status. It should be noted that this practice is not only a violation of the transportation act and of the decisions of the board, but is shown by many decisions of the courts to be a violation of the charter obligations of the railroads and would have been unlawful without the passage of the transportation act or any action by the Labor Board."

"Confidence of Delayed Justice." "We understand that the setting up of a board of adjustment, but inasmuch as such a board can function effectively only with the full co-operation of both managements and employees, we can look merely with hope, and not with certainty, for the establishment of this 'essential' part of the machinery to decide disputes between the carriers and their employees." In the meantime, upon advice from you of the expressed acceptance of your terms of agreement, contained in your telegram of July 31, by all carriers, we will take the responsibility of directing the employees to return to work and on the confidence that by action of the Labor Board upon rehearing of the recent controverted decisions a delayed justice will be rendered to the employees in the matter of wages and working conditions."

Call Attention to Discipline. "We should certainly assume that the railway executives, in their own obvious interest, eventually will accept the proposals made, unless their councils are dominated sufficiently by both managements and employees, to the pressure of public opinion through your high office and to carry on to the bitter end a nihilistic policy of attempting to destroy the self-protection, the institutions of organized labor. We can hardly believe that such a counsel, folly will finally prevail within the railroad managements. It therefore appears that upon the organizations of railway executives and employees rests the immediate responsibility of serving the public interests in bringing about a resumption of efficient operation of the railroads. Under pressure of this responsibility, we have voted by the requisite constitutional majority to accept the terms of agreement which you have submitted to us. We accept reluctantly. It is true, but we commit ourselves to carry out the terms of settlement in utmost good faith, in aid of the general welfare. If these proposals fail to bring about the results which you desire, the responsibility of failure will rest upon the representatives of the organized employees."

to drag on as it is at present. I believe the last person to object to an unlimited extension of the British Empire as long as it was certain it would not revert to former owners."

'SAFEST' ZEPPELIN BEING BUILT FOR U. S. BY GERMANY

Company Ready to "Stake Its Reputation" on Project, Says American Official Conducting Negotiations.

LESSONS TAUGHT BY RECENT DISASTERS

Big Dirigible Will Take the Place of Costs Due United States for Aerial Losses in War.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 17.—Facing the fact that memories of the R-38 and Roma disasters still are freshly in mind throughout the world, Germany's builders of the new Zeppelin intended for commercial use in the United States are prepared to exhaust every resource at their command in producing the "last word" in aircraft. The Zeppelin company stands ready to "stake its reputation" on the project, according to an American official who has figured prominently in the negotiations for the contract.

This official pointed out, however, that the undertaking strikes no awe in the hearts of the constructors since they already have built larger ships than that now under contract. In fact, he said, they are equipped to produce a Zeppelin of 100,000 or even 120,000 cubic meters, as compared with the ship of 70,000 which they have agreed to build for America.

To Profit by Experience. The builders recognize the possibility of elements hitherto uncontrollable entering into construction of this nature, it is said, and will endeavor to profit by careful study of the fate which befell the two giant airships produced for the United States the past two years in England and Italy. Particular attention will be devoted to the question of the manifold stresses to which an airship is subjected in this problem involves multitudinous technicalities as to design and the extreme testing of material. In these departments, it is felt in American circles here, the Germans have achieved an outstanding stage of advance.

Reception of the ship having been delegated to the Naval Department of the United States, its design will be submitted to that division of the navy for approval. In addition, an officer of the department will be present at Friedrichshafen as an inspector throughout the Zeppelin's construction. This duty has been assigned to First Lieut. Gustav E. U. S. N., who is here in connection with the contract. First Lieut. R. G. Penoyer, U. S. N., also has been in Berlin during the negotiations, both of these officers having been on duty in connection with the R-38.

Fifteen Months to Build. It is estimated that 15 months will be required for construction of the ship. No specific time of delivery has been fixed, this being dependent upon a number of contingencies, not the least of which are the weather conditions. The Zeppelin probably will be completed next fall, making it likely that delivery will follow during the summer. Lakehurst, N. J., has been selected as the place of delivery. The contract provides that the ship will fly to the United States and be managed by a German crew. It has not yet been decided, at this early stage of the project, whether any American personnel will accompany the Germans on their trans-Atlantic flight.

Crew to Be Trained. The new Zeppelin will require a crew of about the same number as that which manned the R-38. In this connection it is pointed out here that a large part of the United States Naval Department's air personnel was lost in the accident to the R-38 while the Roma disaster proved a similar loss to the army's air forces. Thus American manning of the new ship will entail training of an almost entirely new crew.

No provision has been made in the contract for the Zeppelin to share in the monetary loss, should an accident occur to the ship before delivery. Since the Zeppelin takes the place of costs due the United States in consequence of the R-38 disaster, it is noted, the fixed amount remains due until such time as the ship is actually turned over to the American Government.

TACNA PACT UPSETS CABINET

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 2.—The Chilean Cabinet resigned yesterday following the retirement of Armando Jarmillo, Minister of Interior, and Angel Guarello, Minister of Justice. The resignations were precipitated by the government's policy concerning the recent protocol signed in Washington with Peru for settlement of the Tacna-Arica controversy.

WEEKS URGED TO FORCE GOLTRA TO OPERATE BARGES

Merchants' Exchange Appeal States 1,000,000 Bushels of Grain Are Tied Up in St. Louis Elevators.

FLEET HAS BEEN IDLE SINCE SPRING

Goltra Has Contended It Was Impossible to Get Coal to Fire Boilers of Tug Boats.

A renewed demand upon Secretary of War Weeks that he take measures to compel Edward F. Goltra to get his Government-leased fleet of four towboats and 19 barges into the business of carrying freight upon the Mississippi River has been sent by the Merchants' Exchange.

A telegram signed by George F. Powell, president of the exchange, was forwarded to the Secretary yesterday, in which it was asserted that, though the Mississippi-Warrior service, which is the Federal-operated barge line between St. Louis and New Orleans, had been able to carry approximately 500,000 bushels of export grain to the sea during July, approximately 1,000,000 bushels remained in St. Louis elevators because there was no facility to move it, the railroad shopmen's strike having limited sharply the number of cars and the disposal of shippers. Powell suggested that Goltra be urged or compelled, if possible, to put his fleet in the grain-carrying business. Though the fleet has been ready for operation since spring, it has remained tied to the bank while Goltra has not given any definite statement of his plans, or aspirations, for the line, except that it was impossible to get coal at this time with which to fire the boilers. He previously had indicated that he was equipping the fleet to burn fuel oil.

Powell returned today from New Orleans, where he conferred with the New Orleans Board of Trade and the Louisiana Board of Commerce to ease the congestion of grain that is waiting to move through St. Louis and that seaport.

LENROOT UPSETS PLANS FOR TARIFF VOTE THIS MONTH

Wisconsin Senator Unwilling to Agree to Unanimous Consent Proposal to Rush Bill Through.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Plans of Republican and Democratic leaders for a final vote on the tariff this month were upset, at least temporarily, today by Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin, who said he was unwilling to consent to a unanimous consent agreement under which it would be possible for highly important changes in the bill, affecting the very policy of the national Government, to be voted upon without debate.

Breaking into the discussion about a unanimous consent agreement, Senator Gooding, Idaho, chairman of the Republican agricultural tariff bloc, offered his resolution proposing an investigation into the financial interest of Senators or their relatives into any industry, property or commodity affected by the tariff. His rejection of tariff duty proposed in the pending bill.

The investigation would be conducted by a committee of five Senators, which would be empowered also to inquire into the number of Senators owning or controlling or financially interested in newspapers, the amount of revenue obtained by such newspapers, and the amount of investment stores which would benefit financially by the defeat of the pending bill.

GENERAL REPRISAL STRIKE AGAINST FASCISTI ENDED

Failure of Movement by Italian Communists Ascribed to Lack of Cause.

ROME, Aug. 2.—The Ministry of the Interior announced this afternoon that the general strike which was proclaimed throughout Italy three days ago in protest against Fascist reprisals against communists was declared ended at noon today.

The failure of the strike was unprecedented in the history of the Italian proletariat, says the Giornale d'Italia, which was published last night for the first time since the strike was called.

The newspaper attributes the failure to the lack of any practical reason for a strike, and says that the movement was intended only to serve the political and parliamentary ambitions of a Socialist group anxious to gain power.

"Only a Realization of Wilson's Vision Can Save Europe," Banker Declares

FRANK A. VANDERLIP.

VANDERLIP, who has been touring Europe several months, says it is up to Premier Lloyd George and President Wilson, respectively, at their approaching conference, to alter the peace of vengeance forced upon Germany over President Woodrow Wilson's protest in order to prevent the complete collapse of Europe.

All Europe's ills, he declared in an article printed in last Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, are traceable to the insolence of England and France against Wilson's warnings of a complete prostration of Germany's industrial and economic destiny under the iron heel of Allied power.

If France and England, through their Premier, will try to get back to the Wilson basis of peace, there is yet hope that Europe will be stabilized to greed and vengeance, and that the future will be a time of peace and prosperity, says the American financier.

BOLIVIA IS WARNED BY ALLIES CONGRESSMAN CAMPBELL LAYS DEFEAT TO VOTE OF STRIKERS

Kansas Says His Opponent, William Spraul, Had the Indorsement of Labor.

MONTICELLO, Ill., Aug. 2.—Congressman Phil Campbell, chairman of the Rules Committee of the national House of Representatives, said today that the House will vote on the Bolivian bill tomorrow. "It seems that the 'dilemma' of the Bolivian bill, which was composed largely of German staff officers. The allied nations have been informed that one of the German officers already had arrived in Bolivia and begun the work of reorganization of the Bolivian army, and that another is on the way from Berlin."

Bolivia is reminded in the council's communication that as a signatory of the treaty of Versailles, she is well as all the other signatory Powers, is prohibited strictly from employing German officers and advisors for her army and navy.

SZE OFFERED SEAT IN CABINET

Foreign Ministry Proffered to Chinese Minister to Washington.

PEKING, Aug. 3.—Alfred Sze, minister to Washington, who was ordered to Peking, has been offered the portfolio of Foreign Minister. President Li feels that the Peking Government has increased its prestige by assembling a parliament friendly to his ideals. The senate will meet again Saturday to discuss the drafting of a constitution. Formation of a constitution already is progressing. Completion of the new cabinet is expected next week.

Coincident with the assembling of Parliament a group of progressive Chinese women have published demands for a clause in the constitution providing for universal suffrage, equal rights to public offices, including membership in Parliament. Most of these women were educated abroad.

INDIAN SIRDAR PREDICTS EARLY REFORM OF WORLD

"Jazz Life" and Accompanying Lack of Moral Restraint Blamed for Murders of Today.

SAYS PROHIBITION WILL END IN 1924

Psychologist Propheesies Return to Power of Democratic Party — Declares "Flapper" Will Vanish.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—"The many murders and tragedies of which we read are but signs that the world is rushing back to its primordial instincts. The cause of this condition is what you call 'jazz life,' and its accompanying lack of moral restraint."

Thus declared Sirdar Rama Setti, East Indian psychologist, who has arrived in Los Angeles for a brief visit in Southern California. He recently arrived in America from Paris, where his predictions caused a sensation among the upper classes.

"America is rapidly coming to a period of great regeneration brought about by the public's surfeit of the artificiality of modern life of today," continued the famous Hindoo. "Short skirts, paint and powder and too much jazz music are going to give place to the study of moral laws, art and betterment."

Political Changes Predicted. "There are the political and other changes which are predicted by Rama Setti:

"Germany will be declared bankrupt in less than six months and will then be controlled by an allied mission which will rapidly bring her back to her position as a great world Power."

"Russia, too, will appeal by the great Powers for Government aid. 'Prohibition will end in 1924, giving place to a local option as far as wines and beer are concerned."

"President Harding will not see the White House again after the conclusion of this term. You will see the Democratic party in power."

Referring to the subject of jazz and its relation to crime, he said: "Jazz is a mad passion of desire, not held in check by moral law or instruction, nor by the example of associations or any other restraining force."

Referring to the recent Meadows murder in Los Angeles, he continued: "In traveling here and there I have observed the same tragedies occurring. In Paris, Landru; in London, Miss Carleton; in Montreal, Father Delorme. These are all the swinging of the pendulum backward; the swing resulting from the mad existence which the majority is leading today."

Felt No Restraint. "What was to prevent the recent Los Angeles tragedy? The victim's assailant, maddened by the desire for 'vengeance, felt no restraining hand of any moral force to stay him. In her mind was a desire to slay, to mar the beauty of another—to crush it utterly, and this she did."

"You say that the wife is more beautiful than the husband. Why in all probability the husband turned to the latter. Of all things beauty unaided by thought is that of which there is the quickest surfeit. Beauty is not—never can be all. The happy alliance was ever made with nothing but beauty on the one side. Was Georges Sand or Cleopatra beautiful?"

"Let me tell you something. The end of these things is not yet. You will have crime and more crime—this is how it is written. Then, in a few months—not more than a year—the regeneration will come, and it will be brought about by these same women who now madden the hearts of men and their own hearts."

"You will see not only in America but universally the return of better things. Women will clothe themselves modestly again; paint and powder will vanish with short skirts and what you call the 'flapper.'"

"Motherhood will return to the proper pinnacle and the world will judge the woman by the manner in which she brings up her children."

Rama Setti was born in the Punjab and was educated at Saint Paul College before receiving his European education. When a youngster he was married to Budni Lal according to the Indian custom, but lost his wife in an attack by the H11 tribes.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.
I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Tariff That Kills Trade.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH.
WHEN the tariff on articles of import becomes so high as to be a prohibitive measure rather than a protective one, it works an injury upon the citizens of the United States. The section of the Fordney-McCumber bill, which is now before Congress, retaining a duty on such articles as automobiles, in that a careful consideration should be given to those measures which are not in accord with the spirit underlying the principle of protection to the American manufacturer.

The trade of the United States must necessarily grow larger with foreign nations. We cannot hope to build up any trade with those nations when we place upon those articles which they export to us such restrictive measures as are suggested in the present Fordney-McCumber bill relating to cutlery. The measures seem drastic and not worthy of that far-sightedness which will eventually bring back that prosperity to this country, the acquaintance with which has been almost forgotten. Protective measures should be so shaped that they will put the American manufacturer upon an equal basis of competition with the foreign manufacturer and should be no more than enough to balance the difference in cost of manufacturing by reason of the lower wages paid to labor in those countries from which we import.

The present measure is not even restrictive in nature, but approaches confiscation, not to mention its far removal from any protective intent.

W. F. KOKEN.

On Buying Bailplayers.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH.
IN the main, I approve of your editorial sentiment about "poisoning baseball." There is no doubt that the Gotham Moneybags are killing the game. But I should feel a good deal better about it if our own magnates would win a little in the same direction. Phil Ball and Sam Broadman cannot protest against the sales with a very good grace. I never heard of them getting into the bidding.

Every St. Louis fan knows that one good pitcher and one good third baseman would win the pennant for the Browns. Likewise, a first-class pitcher would come very near winning the other pennant for the Cardinals. Both teams came to their own dirt cheap. But owners have made a mint of money this season. Why don't they invest some of it? Who doubts, for example, that Connie Mack would accept $75,000 for Ed Ruppert. The pennant would be "in" if the Browns had Ruppert.

So far as I know, Ball didn't make an offer for Joe Dugan, and yet he could use him better than any owner in the league. I haven't heard that Ruppert tried very hard to buy McQuinn, although that would have been an ideal purchase. St. Louis has always been afflicted with miserly baseball magnates. Regardless of the just criticism you have to give it to Ruppert and Stoneham, when they want a ballplayer they go after him. We could use a little of that spirit here.

A FAN.

Dreadful Effects of Unemployment.
TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH.
I AM dropping you a few lines, letting you know how one feels when one is out of work and disgraced. This little poem which I wrote tells just how I feel:

I have a troubled mind.
And no one seems to care.
The trouble that I carry
Or the trouble that I bear.

I have a weak heart.
But some say it's fear.
For one to feel so gloomy
When there's pleasure always near.

But in my heart I always feel That some day I will find
The pleasure I am seeking
To soothe my troubled mind.

A DEEP THINKER.

A Bright Suggestion.
TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH.
IN answering the "webs" when they mention the awful loss of revenue and the tremendous cost of enforcement, the leading stock argument of the "drys" is that the next and future generations will be benefited. Taking this for granted, the next and future generations should pay the greater part of the immense cost of this war against "King Alcohol."

Long-term bonds should be issued to effect this. The solvitude of the "drys" for future generations is praiseworthy, and they would eagerly respond to the call and purchase the bonds liberally.

They persistently claim that a great majority demand prohibition, so every "dry" would doubtless purchase one or more bonds to help sustain this claim. It is manifestly unjust that the present generation should pay it all, especially when so many of us who never brought on this war are deprived of our temperate quantity and have only the beverages that Clark McDams classed as "without a bright thought in them."

I would like to hear from Socrates, Glaucon et al. of your philosophers on this bond proposition, even though one of the other, in humorous vein, might propose that the issue be called "Abridged Liberty Bonds" and bear portraits of Volstead and Pussfoot Johnson. O.G.

NOMINATED AND REPUDIATED.

The Democratic primary returns indicate the re-nomination of Senator Reed by a small plurality—three or four thousand votes.

Although it is too early for a thorough analysis of the returns, they clearly show that the Senator was repudiated by a majority of his own party. The case against him was complete and the Democratic verdict condemned him, but he pulled through by the votes of Republican admirers, particularly the German-American element. It was a moral defeat. He himself magnified and sneered down the weakness of his opponent, yet after an intensive, exhaustive campaign of about three months, in which he played upon every string of argumentative and emotional appeal, he failed to rally a majority of the Democrats to his support, but won a pitiful plurality from Republicans in the cities and Republican counties.

The result is disappointing to all those who fought Senator Reed on principle and who hoped for an overwhelming endorsement of the great and vital cause for which the Democrats stood. There is, however, in the results gratifying evidence that the cause of peace through international co-operation is not lost, but, on the contrary, holds vigorous support among large elements of the people and is opposed mainly by special elements, moved mainly by foreign antipathies and sympathies.

The attitude of R. R. Brewster does not offer opportunity for the submission of the issue of Senator Reed's record and attitude on the League of Nations to the people in the general election. In the campaign both have stood practically on the same platform. The issues, however, will be more clearly defined as the campaign proceeds. The evidence in the primary generally of a progressive reaction among Republican voters is a hopeful sign.

THE "RING" AND THE BENCH.

The slate of the "Courtroom Ring" was smashed in several notable instances in the Republican primary, but the vote on candidates for the Circuit Bench was disappointing. Five of the nine candidates named by the lawyers in the Bar Association poll were defeated. The four endorsed candidates who won were Judges Hamilton, Davis, Taylor and Calhoun, and the five unendorsed candidates nominated were George E. Mix, Anthony Itner, V. Falkenhainer, A. B. Frey and Erwin Ossing.

The voters will have an opportunity to select an excellent ticket from the Democratic and Republican nominees. There ought to be a strong combination of voters of both leading parties to keep the hand of the "Ring" off the bench.

THE BELL INVENTION.

What invention has done most to make possible our present civilization is a question that invites endless debate. That question is now suggested by the death of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone.

It would be hard now to imagine the modern world without the telephone. It has lengthened human life by relieving people of the necessity of delivering messages in person. More than that, it delivers billions of messages, immediately answering them in the form of conversation, that could never have been delivered without it. The Bell instrument represents billions of invested capital and has made the name of its inventor known in every home of civilization to the ends of the earth. It is not for us to say that the present telephone will not be displaced by a cheaper and just as convenient form of distance communication. It may be. But let us realize that if radio had been invented first men would still be looking for a means of private conversational communication, whether by wire or without.

The late Mr. Bell became the medium of a bit of scientific intelligence whose possibilities were not foreseen. The inventor himself had no such expectations as have been realized. After the invention he had reorganized his classes in vocal speech and, as he was poor, intended to go on teaching. An amusing evidence of his humanity was his recent decision to have the telephone removed from his house as a nuisance. His is the most conspicuous admission that the telephone is not an unvarying boon. It is a persistent invader of repose and a boorish intruder upon other conversations and pursuits. Nevertheless, it is indispensable, and it has immortalized the name of its inventor.

WHO IS REBELLING NOW?

The respective positions of the railway executives and the shopmen's union toward the Government authority in labor adjustment have been exactly reversed since the beginning of the strike. Then the shopmen, because of their repudiation of the Railroad Labor Board's ruling, were striking against the Government. Now the railway executives, in rejecting the seniority clause in President Harding's proposal for settlement, are striking against the Government.

The executives at first took the high ground that the strike was against the Government rather than against the railroads, who were doing the bidding of the Government. Now they take the high ground that acceptance of the President's terms would be a breach of faith with the men who remained on the job and the new employees who were hired to break the strike and would be a repudiation of principle. It is notable, however, that in both cases the high ground the executives took served their end in fighting unionism.

The railroads, after the strike was called, as a strike weapon, served an ultimatum on the strikers that they must return to work on a certain date or forfeit their seniority rights. Here there arises a question of authority of the railroads to make such promises. How can the railroads consistently recognize the authority of a Government board in fixing wages and terms of employment, as they have done, and at the same time raise obstacles to re-employment in contradiction of the Government authority? Who has the right to make and repudiate promises in such matters, the railroads or the Government?

Justice must be done the men who stayed on the job and kept railroad service in operation when the other men deserted in defiance of the Government. But justice does not consist necessarily in accepting as obligatory the promises of the railroads given to their employees as a strike weapon. The loyal men and the new men should not be discriminated against. They have been paid for their work while the strikers were idle and without pay. If the railway executive are more anxious to do justice to these men than they are to inflict punitive damages on the unions they can find a way to grant such justice that is not in conflict with the President's terms of settlement.

Railway service must be maintained, and antiunion warfare under the mask of loyalty to the Government or loyalty to principle can have no part in maintaining it.

"Voyage of Columbus Filmed for School Children," says a headline, and we must admit that it was a remarkable bit of foresight, considering the primitive state of the movie industry in 1492.

THE SUBMERGED BOURGEOISIE.

The Clean Election Committee in Boss Essen's bailiwick admits that St. Louis County witnessed last Tuesday "the most corrupt election ever held here," and one may infer from the tone of the announcement that that is "going some."

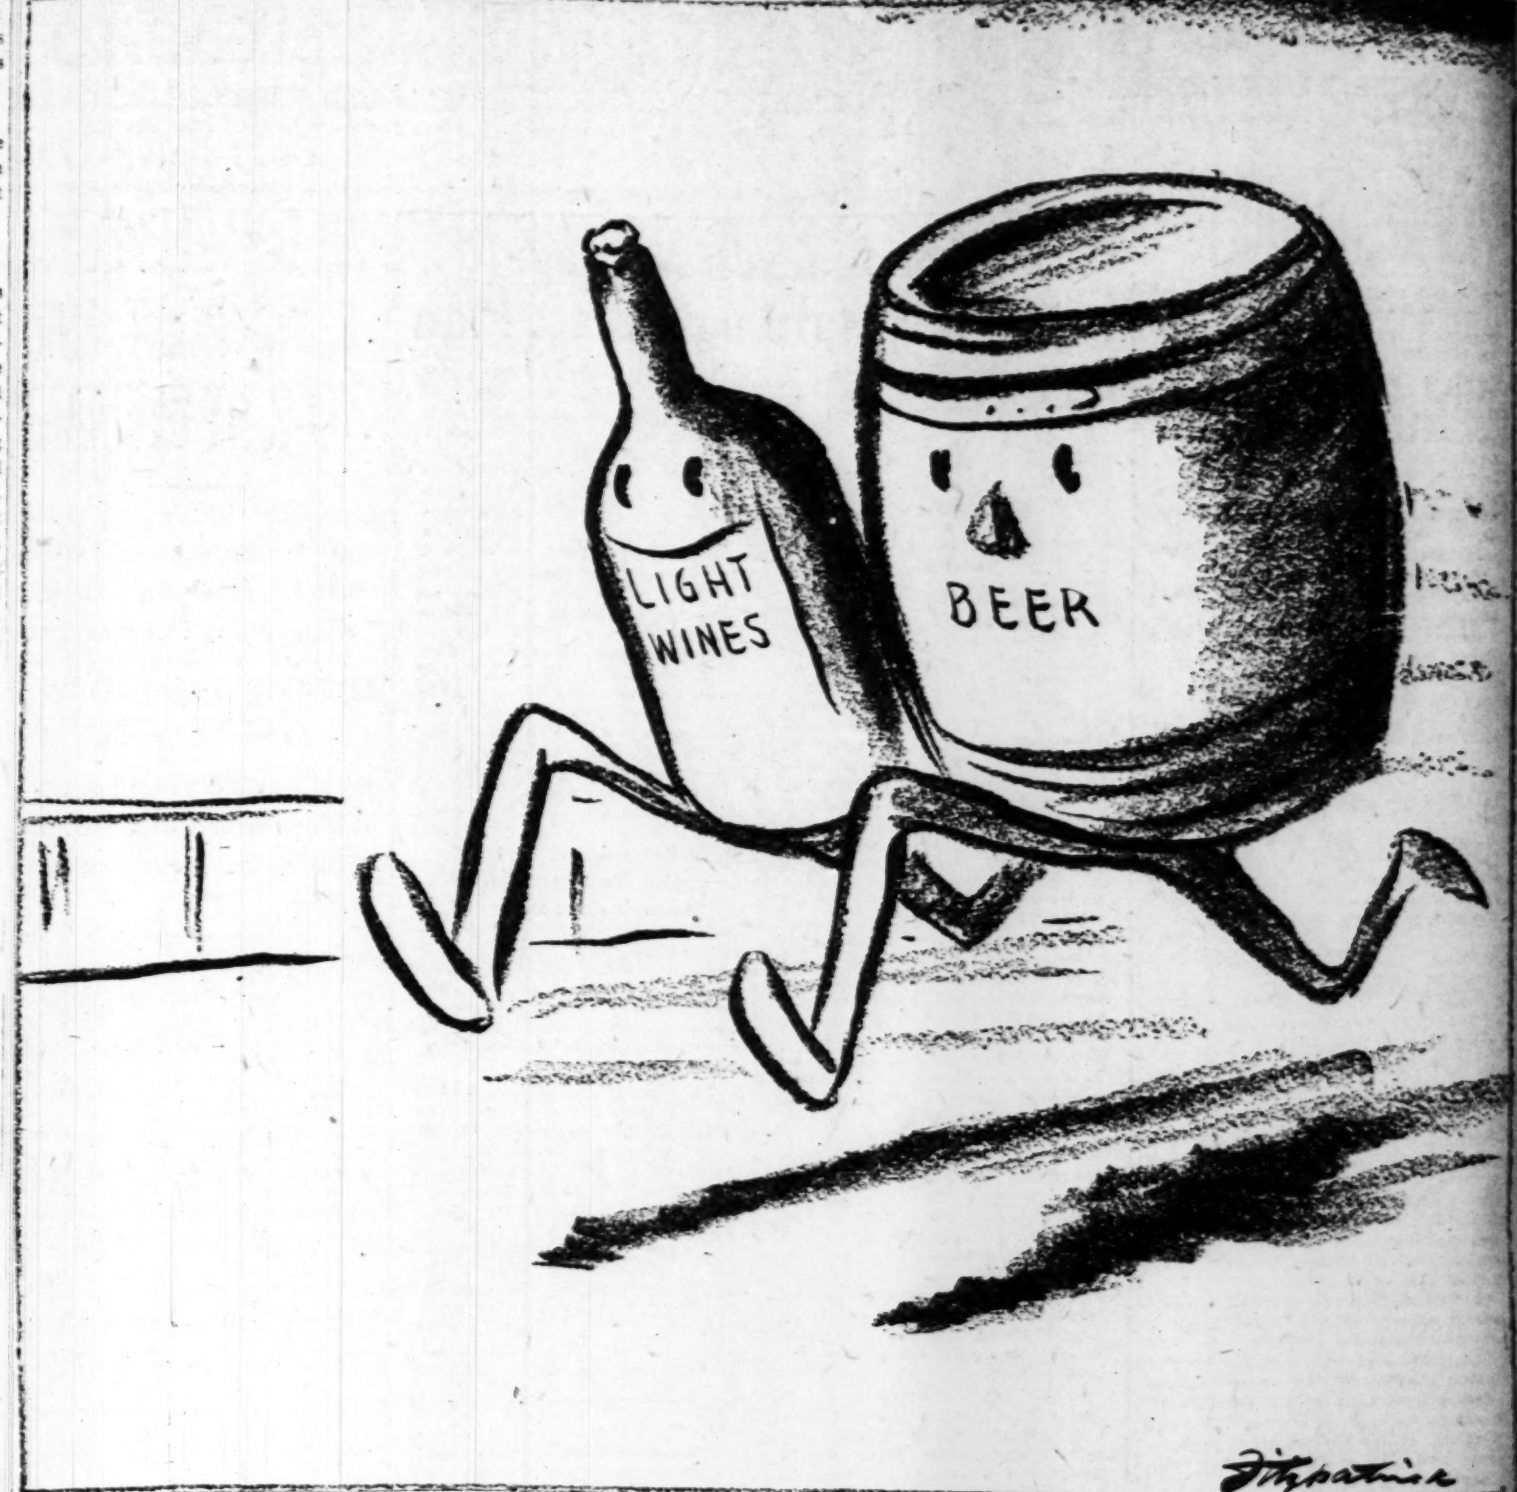

What's the matter with our good citizens just over the city border? We think this question may be asked with propriety from the depths of a great city's dens and hell-holes of wickedness. We are the historic victims of courthouse rings, river wards and machine politicians. We deplore but we must admit, and happily we have the elements on which we can lay the blame.

With bourgeois Clayton it is different. There the population lives in comfort and knows its neighbors well enough to spot an alien election judge and run him out of a polling place. What is the matter, then, with Clayton? Is it troubled like ourselves with a large good-citizen element that is so busy making money, dining out and traveling that it can't get them out to vote?

The experience of Policeman Schmidt will prove of benefit to thousands of husbands, who will now be able to show that the possession of a plug of tobacco is absolutely necessary to a man's safety.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH
By Clark McDams

CIVILIZATION has not done as well of late as some of us had hoped, but it nevertheless has its defenders as against a primitive society such as Gandhi thinks we ought to go back to. Thus, Br'er Martin of Life, who believes thoroughly in civilization, though nobody in any official position has taken his editorial advice in goodness knows when, thinks Gandhi is mistaken in believing that a primitive society would be good for India or any other country.

We are not so sure. If one will recall, for instance, what St. Louis was like in primitive times and compare it with the St. Louis of our time, the past exerts an undeniable charm and fascination. It goes without saying that we are in many ways better off than people were when the Cahokia Mounds were functioning and a primitive society exchanged signals and courtesies across the Mississippi, but would you say we are any happier than those people were?

No doubt the Cahokians would have built a larger community than they did, and the suburb over on the Missouri hills would doubtless have stretched itself out in time from Canadett to the Chains of Rocky; but that they would have retained the primitive simplicity of the old St. Louis, keeping a tight rein upon every ambition to make the city something it could not remain permanently, we somehow feel confident.

The advantage of the primitive society, as it seems to us, was that it did not too swiftly rush to its own destruction. Though inferior to our own in many ways, it had the prospect of remaining what it was for a long period of time, and would likely be what it was now had civilization not come to destroy it.

There is no such permanency about civilization as there is about one of the placid stages of barbarism. This is proved by history. Barbarism almost unchanging has persisted in some parts of the world through the various civilizations of Europe and Asia. When one thinks of our own problems and wonders to what extent posterity will find them solvable, one instinctively finds quiet and contentment in recalling what the primitive society would probably be now had we not disturbed it.

Gandhi thinks everything done by people like Messrs. Edison and Ford is a mistake. He disbelieves thoroughly in machinery or anything started by turning a button. In the unplugged state before the English came with their new-fangled inventions, India was happy. Since then she has been polishing brass. She does not want to polish brass. She wants to live a natural as opposed to an unnatural life and invite her soul.

Br'er Martin scouts this. Yet the Br'er has not been able to invite his soul in God knows how long.

The Kansas City Times says: Joseph J. Heffner, for 15 years editor of the Macon Times-Democrat and well known among the newspaper men of Missouri, died recently at Maryville. He disposed of his paper to become an insurance agent some time ago, but will be remembered by many.

Great Scott! Aren't insurance men remembered by anyone?

We take it from the vote for Br'er Sacks that the people of St. Louis are mighty thirsty.

Maybe heavy wines would have cast a heavier vote.

BALLAD OF BLIND MEN AND BEAUTY.

I USED to pity blind men

But now I know that they Are not subject to torment

As I am every day.
For I see so much beauty

It sweeps my mind away.

I can't forget their faces,
I can't forget their forms,
I cannot help being haunted

By their provoking charms—
And in my sleep sometimes I dream
They're lying in my arms.

So who would pity blind men
Who never feel the pain.
Or pang of seeing beauty
That near benumbs the brain

With passion that is pitiless
Because 'tis born in vain?

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

GOLF AND EXERCISE.

From the Minneapolis Journal.

ACCORDING to S. B. Quale, Federal Director of Prohibition in Minnesota, the game of golf is bad because it "encourages idleness" and "creates a desire among youths" to do something they cannot afford to do. "I do not believe it was intended for the youth, or for anyone who has not arrived at the age of 55," he says. "One can get just as good and healthful exercise by using the hoe as he can by using the golf club."

It would seem that Mr. Quale has taken half-truths for the whole truth. If golf is a bad game because it encourages the young to do something they cannot afford to do, would Mr. Quale have us believe he is in favor of abolishing the automobile? It, too, can set a bad example to youths by encouraging them to idle around in something they cannot afford to drive. The world long ago recognized the fact that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. It learned that if a man is to be a success, he must have a well-rounded life, giving as much attention to his physical condition as he does to his business. So today we have golf links, tennis courts, bridge paths and the like as an appeal for everybody to come out-doors; shake worries and cares and enjoy the sunshine. It is not that any such exercises are better than hoeing a garden. The fact is only a recognition that even if men have gardens and hoes they all will not utilize them. We agree with Mr. Quale that there is a tendency of youths to over-indulge in golf. But that should not be taken as an indictment against the game.

THE RUSSIAN PROBLEM.
From the Detroit News.
FORMER Gov. Lowden has returned from a three months' European tour, during which he attended Genoa and conferred with statesmen and others presumably on the inside of great events. Naturally one expects some significant conclusion about the Great Question hanging like a millstone around the neck of the world. Mr. Lowden, facing the confiding question mark of his fellow countrymen, revolves in his mind all he has learned about Russia and then says: "What is the answer to the Russian problem? I do not know." That is a good, clear answer and one speculates whether Mr. Lowden is not the first to confess incapacity to cure the Russian situation in two sentences. Many have visited Russia and most of them emerge thoroughly convinced that the truth resides in their own individual breasts, and this truth they impart to the world at so much a volume. Mr. Lowden says there are some things he thinks he knows, but he does not know the solution to the Russian problem. He should worry; no one else does either. His best word is found in the soliloquy in which he speculates whether there is now forming within her vast population of 145,000,000 a group of patriots some day to take over the control of Russian destiny. But he doesn't know. It is gratifying to find a man who doesn't know.

From Paris—secrets of summer-time freshness

From Paris, Monsieur Kerkoff, creator of Djer-Kiss sends to the American ladies this message:

"Summer coolness, comfort and protection; these you may enjoy by employing my French poudres—Talc Djer-Kiss and Djer-Kiss Face Powder. So delicate they are—so pure—so soothing to tender skins! From Paris itself, they are indeed the day's mode in poudres.

"Remember, too, Madame, they are fragrant always with the French fragrance of Parfums Djer-Kiss."

FOURTH SUIT FILED AGAINST FOLEY FOR GAMBLING LOSSES

George Van Brandt, 21, Insurance Salesman, Seeks to Recover $1430, Alleged Losses in Dice Game.

The fourth suit in as many months to recover from Anthony F. (Tony) Foley money lost in gambling games at 6128 Easton avenue, Westlawn, was filed in Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday.

It was that of George Van Brandt, 21 years old, 1907A McNair avenue, an insurance salesman, who declared that between May 5 and July 10 he lost $1430 in a dice game at the gambling house. Besides Foley he names as defendants various employees and others. "Butch" Maguire, Joe Connors, Edward Gleason, James Mulligan and Harry Trindle.

Following previous suits, attempts were made to prosecute Foley under the anti-gambling laws, but Prosecuting Attorney Mueller has said that he found that when the civil suits were settled out of court, complainants declined to testify in a criminal suit. He declared also that other witnesses were often tampered with.

Other similar suits filed against Foley were those of J. Lindsay on July 13 to recover $400; T. J. Hughes on April 15 to recover $1400, and George H. Kelly on April 25 to recover $484. The latter two cases were settled out of court. That of Lindsay is pending. A criminal charge against Foley, based upon Lindsay's allegation, is set for preliminary hearing next Thursday. The Easton avenue address was described in some of the suits as a miniature Monte Carlo, equipped with roulette, dice, "twenty-one" and betting on races over various tracks in the United States, Canada and Cuba.

UNAUTHORIZED SALE OF ARMY SURPLUS SUPPLIES CHARGED

Captain and Five Members of His Company Held for Investigation at Fort Bliss.

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 3.—Department of Justice agents here yesterday were attempting to recover more than $100,000 worth of Government property alleged to have been taken in the last three months from Fort Bliss without proper authority. The search followed the arrest Tuesday at the army post of Capt. Clifford E. Black of the Eighth Engineer regiment, by order of Gen. Robert L. Howze, commander at Fort Bliss. Army officials refused to reveal the exact nature of the charge against Capt. Black. H. R. Gamble, special United States Attorney here, said that charges would be filed today.

Capt. Black was in command of a detail which for months has been collecting and assembling surplus army equipment at Fort Bliss. Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of supplies, which were to be sold at auction, were stored there. Gus Mommson, president of a local hardware firm, told Department of Justice agents that he had purchased $2500 worth of steam radiators from the captain. He said that the captain told him he was authorized by the Government to make the sale. Agents seized between $20,000 and $25,000 worth of equipment alleged to have been taken from the fort to an El Paso warehouse. Five members of Capt. Black's company were held by military police for investigation.

TWO HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Boy Suffers Fractured Skull and Man Broken Leg.

Verne Seniff, 9 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Seniff, of 2825 South Thirteenth street, helping his father change a tire on an automobile in front of the home last night, ran to get a hammer from across the street and was knocked down by an automobile driven by Henry Leyh of 3323 Wisconsin avenue, who was northbound on Thirteenth street. At the City Hospital it was said he suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Albert Trojahn, 24, of 4234 South Main street, riding a motor cycle south on Seventh street at Arsenal street failed to observe the signal of a truck driver ahead and crashed into the truck with the motor cycle as the truck turned east into Arsenal street. He suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and internal injuries.

Dutch and British colonial policies, or follow the example of the United States in their protective tariff in the Philippine Islands." Crosby said he thought the reparations commission had made a fatal mistake in making Germany pay sums which it could not do without selling currency abroad. He also said the first question for America to consider in reference to the cancellation or reduction of inter-allied debts was whether Congress could do this constitutionally or not. "Sooner or later," he said, "this question must be faced, because somebody is bound to raise it."

WHAT DID YOU SEE TODAY?

Volunteer Reporters Tell the Post-Dispatch of the Interesting, Unusual and Often Humorous Incidents They Encounter.

DEFEATED candidates may well read the What-Did-You-See Today department for its spirit of cheer. Those who won in the primary, with a three months' campaign ahead, will find a knowledge of what people are thinking about, and a store of homely philosophy, in the contributed anecdotes. Perhaps some of the candidates will write of things they saw on or before election day. Their letters will be welcome. Today's selections, paid for at $1 each, are:

I saw a man come out of a barber shop wearing a hat and carrying another. He had gone but a short distance when I heard the barber call him back. The man, who was a professor, explained that he had put on his hat, unthinkingly picked up another closely resembling it, and walked out.

A MERCENARY DOG.

I have noticed an unusual friendship between a collie dog and a calf. On the part of the dog the friendship is purely selfish. When the calf has finished a meal the collie will lick all traces of the milk from the calf's muzzle.
MRS. W. L. DAVIS,
104 E. Third street, Rolla, Mo.

IMAGINED AN AERIAL.

In an Olive street car an elderly woman, evidently deaf, sat with an electrical sound amplifying device in her ear. A child in the seat in front of her gazed curiously at the woman. Muttering courage he said, "Lemme listen awhile, lady?" Radio gets 'em young.
D. A. EBERHARDT,
Room 207, Pullerton Bldg.

CANARIES TO ORDER.

As I was passing a lot where a carnival was in progress, I saw a woman washing a cage in which had "yellow canary." To be given away on a raffle, was being kept. The bird flew into the water, and on returning to its perch was no longer a "yellow canary," but a sparrow, and was young.
W. LEE, 1223 Lami Street.

CAT COURAGE.

I saw a small black and white cat with a big dog in pursuit. After a short chase the cat turned around, arched its back and "meowed." The dog turned and ran.
M. B. FULTON,
749 N. Euclid.

HUH?

I shot a large bullfrog the other day. I noticed that he had swallowed something of considerable size. Opening him up I discovered a small hard-shell turtle, alive and kicking.
F. W. STEPHENSON,
4128 Washington Avenue.

HIS GRIEVANCE.

I saw a man struck by an automobile going at a high rate of speed at Lindell and Union boulevards. The man was knocked into a clump of bushes. The machine continued on its way. I went up, expecting to find a corpse, and saw the man crawl out from the bushes. I asked him how badly he was hurt. "Oh, I'm all right," he replied, "but I had a hard time to find my cap."

A. E. SHAW, 4053 Westminster.

REWARD OF GREED.

At a recent game at Sportsman's Park a ball was fouled and came flying over in my direction. A man sitting beside me held out his straw hat to catch the ball, but to his dismay, the sphere crashed right through it, carrying away the crown.
HARRY HUNKELER,
2118A East Wame ave.

WELCOME, SIR, SHE SAID.

A young man hanging to a strap in a street car lost his hold as the car started with a jerk. He sat down on a girl's lap, and greatly embarrassed turned to her and said, "Thank you."
LOUISE SCHMIDT,
2800 Salena street.

MADISON COUNTY GRAND JURY RECONVENES FOR NALTY INQUIRY

Investigation of Killing of Deputy Sheriff and Tri-City Bank Robbery Ordered by Court.

The Madison County grand jury was reconvened today at Edwardsville to investigate the killing of Deputy Sheriff Patrick J. Nalty by St. Louis police characters at Granite City two weeks ago and the robbery of the Tri-City State Bank at Madison July 10, with which the killing is believed to have had a connection.

Judge Gillham merely instructed the jurors to investigate the two crimes, as outlined in State's Attorney Streuber's motion for the re-calling of the jury. About a dozen witnesses were on hand to testify.

A movement also was started today by friends of Nalty, led by William Champion, Joseph Krill, J. W. Cassidy and Harry A. Faulkner of Granite City, to raise a fund of at least $5000, for Nalty's widow. A meeting is to be held at Edwardsville Monday afternoon, to which representatives of each of the 23 townships will be invited. Plans for solicitation in each township will be made.

Nalty formerly was well-to-do, but was liberal in charities and left an estate of only about $2500.

MASTER OF 5 LANGUAGES AT 15

Polish Youth Acquired Abilities by Mingling With Foreigners.

By the Associated Press.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Aug. 3.—Master of five languages and official interpreter for the Board of Education, Ronald Kuzma, 15, is hailed as Battle Creek's boy prodigy. Ronald, who came to this city from Poland 11 years ago, for two years has acted for the board as interpreter of Russian, Macedonian, Croatian and Polish. Interpreting these languages for the benefit of public officials and foreign-born of the city.

The youth acquired the major part of his linguistic abilities through mingling with foreigners speaking these languages, he says. Early in life he resolved to master as many languages as possible and sought as companions boys of these various nationalities. After learning to speak their tongues, he sought the more scholarly of their elders and learned to write the languages. Ronald is in his first year of high school. Within the last year he has made up work in two grades lost because of illness during his childhood. Despite his aptitude for languages, the boy declares he will not become a professional linguist, having decided to specialize in mechanical appliances.

TAMAKI MIURA TO SING IN U. S.

Platonic Affair With Accompanist Almost Prevents Sailing.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Tamaki Miura, Japanese prima donna of European grand opera, sailed from Tokio for Honolulu yesterday under contract with the Chicago Opera Association and also under contract for a series of performances here with the Metropolitan Opera Company. Her husband, Dr. Miura, is reported as having applied unsuccessfully to the Japanese authorities to keep his wife in Japan or at least from traveling to America on the same boat with her Italian accompanist, Signor Franchetti. As a result, Mrs. Miura has refused to permit her husband to come with her.

A family council of the Miuras was held for several days at Tokio and a compromise conclusion was adopted—that artists are not judgeable by the ordinary husband's standards and that platonic affairs are to be expected. At Honolulu they will separate, the accompanist going to Chicago and Mrs. Miura to New York. A representative of the family is accompanying them.

GIRL HURT IN LEAVING TAXI

Fern Friedman, 17 years old, of 1416 Biddle street, was cut and bruised at 9 o'clock last night when she alighted from a moving taxicab driven by Lloyd Bloomer of 2107 North Tenth street, near Tenth and Biddle streets. She was thrown to the street.

Police investigating the affair reported that several girls had asked Bloomer to give them a ride near Fourteenth and Carr street, and while driving them they asked where he was going. "I'm going home," he replied, and Miss Friedman stepped from the machine before he could stop.

CRANE WORKER HELD FOR DEATH

Lee Windemeyer, a crane operator for the National Lead and Oil Co., Sublette and Manchester avenues, was held by a coroner's jury today for the death of Barney Albers, 58 years old, of 5049 Alaska avenue, at Alexian Brothers' Hospital Tuesday night from injuries suffered March 24, when he was struck by the crane operated by Windemeyer.

Albers' widow testified that he told her Windemeyer failed to signal. Windemeyer testified that he gave the signal but did not see Albers.

MANY TO SEE BALLOONS START

Visitors Are at Geneva to See International Trophy Race.

GENEVA, Aug. 3.—The city is crowded with visitors for the international balloon contests for the James Gordon Bennett trophy, which starts from here Sunday, with a number of interesting preliminary contests.

Among the preliminary attractions is a hare and hound balloon race with Count de la Vaux, the famous French long-distance aeronaut, in the hare balloon, which is to be chased by a number of competing balloons. None of the competitors for the Bennett Cup are in the preliminary, but all are on the ground, including the American entrants, Capt. H. E. Honeywell, Maj. Oscar Westover and Lieut. Walter S. Reed.

Grain and Hay Barn Burns.

Dense smoke pouring from a grain and hay storage stable in the rear of 2945 Sheridan avenue, resulted in a two-alarm call yesterday, when fire of undetermined origin destroyed the contents of the stable, valued at $2000. The building was rented by the Cass Avenue Feed and Coal Co., 2456 Cass avenue, from the owner, H. Michels, 4201 North Prairie avenue. The barn had just been stocked with hay and grain.

ASSOCIATION HURLER WINS WITH RADIO BALL.
CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Harry Weaver, hurling for the Indianapolis American Association team, has been up to a remarkable record to date. He won 15 of his first 19 games. He credits his brilliant performance to a new delivery, the "radio ball," a combination of a fast ball and a fade-away, but has a double shot. Weaver has perfected the delivery until he can deliver it with a change of pace—an impossibility with the slow fadeaway. The Hoosier hurler tried out the delivery last fall and won 10 of his last 12 games with it. He's a right-hander.

They Are Starring at Seabright

R. NORRIS WILLIAMS II (left), FRANCIS T. HUNTER.

Williams, a Davis cup team member and former U. S. champion, is regaining the form that once enabled him to defeat the famous Comstock McLoughlin.

Hunter has proved the real surprise of the season. Never a first ten ranking player, his defeat of Watson Washburn, Davis cup star and No. 5 in rank, and of Gerald Patterson, victor in the Wimbledon world's champion tourney, will probably give him a high placing, this year.

Leonard Not to Box in Training; Eye Is Injured

Cut Suffered in Tender Bout Slow to Heal as Champion Prepares for Next Go.

By Ed W. Smith, Chicago Referee and Authority on Sports.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Aug. 3.—There is growing uneasiness in the minds of thousands of friends that Benny Leonard has made in this vicinity that the champion is in for a desperate time if he Saturday afternoon when he steps out, with title in hand, against Ever Hammer of Chicago.

These friends do not think Leonard is inferior as a fighter in any way or that he has lost ground recently, but the fact that he has a badly cut right eye is the cause.

As a matter of fact, Leonard is developing the whole argument of the battle now is around this injury. Most of the fans admit that Hammer is a wonderfully tough and willing lad and that his rushing style makes him one of the hardest men of the day to put under.

For these reasons Leonard must be in the best of shape to meet him and while he is undoubtedly his usual excellent shape otherwise, the injured eye puts the champion in a handicapped condition that may cause him a lot of trouble.

Leonard himself admits all of Ever's toughness and general ability not only to give but to take as well. Benny knows that Hammer swings a nasty left hand, coming in from almost any direction, and in such a manner that it is hard to gauge.

Of course, that bad lamp is to be the main target of Hammer's left and if it connects and opens the eye, the wounds there may be a very interesting story to write of the subsequent proceedings.

Both boxers will virtually wind up their training today. Leonard will shadow box, skip rope and loosen up. Hammer will dry out. He will be in at under 118. Leonard is not making weight for this match.

Australians Easy For Americans in Singles Matches

Hunter Defeats Patterson While Johnston Trims Anderson at Seabright.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 3.—Miss Leslie Bancroft, of the Longwood Cricket Club, Boston, today defeated Miss Helen Willis, California champion, 6-2, 6-3, and won her way into the final round of the women's singles at the Seabright lawn tennis and Cricket club.

Miss Bancroft will meet the winner of the Molla Bjurstedt Mallory-May Sutton Bundy match which will be played this afternoon.

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory of New York, and Miss Phyllis Walsh of Overbrook, Pa., defeated Miss Edith Handy, and Miss Florence Ballin of New York, and advanced to the semifinal round in the women's doubles, 6-3, 6-3.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Gerald L. Patterson encountered the fury of the American forehand drive played at its best on the turf courts of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club at Seabright, N. J., yesterday.

The Australasian vainly attempted to weather the storm of shots from the racquet of Francis T. Hunter and the winner of the recent world's championship at Wimbledon, England, was defeated, 6-3, 6-3.

The defeat of Patterson, the protégé of Norman E. Brooks, sent to wrest the Davis Cup from the Americans, was not the only break in the line of the Australasians. William M. Johnston whipped his drive so skillfully through the court protected by James O. Anderson that the latter failed to gain the semifinal round of the tournament.

The score of "Little Bill" was 6-2, 8-6. That the Seabright tournament should continue as an all-American competition, Robert Kinsey, the tall youth from the Pacific Coast, accounted for the elimination of Zeno Shimizu, the Japanese. It was in retaliation for one of Shimizu's 6-2, 6-1; Leslie Johnson of Minneapolis beat Clark Stone of Sioux Falls, 6-2, 7-5; John Barton, Sioux Falls, beat Ralph Oliver, Sioux City, 6-2, 6-1; Joe Jackson, Kansas City, beat Woodward Brown of St. Louis, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2; Myron Hutchinson, St. Louis, beat Julius Meisenholder of Parkston, S. D., 6-3, 6-2, 7-5; Kenneth Rerick of Prichard, Ala., beat Neave, St. Joseph, 6-2, 6-4.

Hard Hitting Wins.
Hunter's astonishing triumph over Patterson will live long as a masterpiece of hard hitting, in the minds of those who witnessed the encounter. From the opening service, which was his, the American swung into his forehand shots all the power of his drive.

By the force of his drives and as he was hitting, still, the terrific onslaught caused him to recoil toward the base line every time he ventured an attack at the net. The American back hand, carried out of his service, was a masterpiece of the encounter.

Then the Australian captain, fighting desperately in the rallies to avoid the cyclonic attack on his back hand, was forced to play every game of the set. There were the fourth and sixth games. It was all that he could do. Hunter kept driving deeply and with wonderful accuracy. He took Patterson's back hand to tattered and so spoiled the effective length of the famous Australian's long drives that the Wimbledon winner made a poor showing in the closing game of the set.

It was all that he could do. Hunter kept driving deeply and with wonderful accuracy. He took Patterson's back hand to tattered and so spoiled the effective length of the famous Australian's long drives that the Wimbledon winner made a poor showing in the closing game of the set.

By the force of his drives and as he was hitting, still, the terrific onslaught caused him to recoil toward the base line every time he ventured an attack at the net. The American back hand, carried out of his service, was a masterpiece of the encounter.

Australasians' Defeat By Americans Should Cause Change in Odds

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—British lawn tennis stars were so impressed with the showing of Gerald L. Patterson and James O. Anderson, the Australians in the world's championship at Wimbledon, that odds of 6 to 4 have been quoted in favor of the team from the antipodes lifting the Davis Cup from the United States champions.

Around the courts at Seabright the opinion now prevails that the unexpected lowering of Patterson's odds by Francis T. Hunter, who gained the semifinal round at Wimbledon last year, will have the effect of changing the odds. Hunter forced home the conclusion that Patterson's backhand is not equal to withstanding a terrific attack.

Johnson's defeat of Anderson leaves the Australians very little hope of success in the Davis Cup challenge round.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS WILL TRY TO GET CLAY COURTS NET TOURNAMENT IN 1923
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 3.—The Associated Tennis Clubs of Indianapolis, backed by the local Chamber of Commerce, have gone on record to bring back to Indianapolis in 1923, if possible, the national clay court tennis championships which were played here earlier this month.

It is understood that the local net authorities will recommend that in 1924 the event go to St. Louis.

The twelfth annual clay court championship played at the Woodstock Country Club here this year was the biggest tennis event that has ever come to Indiana. The Associated Tennis Clubs have made a record of expenses since the meet and have decided that the event was worth while financially. The support of the Chamber of Commerce has been enlisted and that body has agreed to underwrite the event.

A formal application for the thirteenth annual clay court championship is being prepared and will be filed soon with the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

William T. Tilden II, Philadelphia, American champion, who won the 1921 title here this year, has agreed to support the return of the event here.

Browns' Lead Cut to 1 Game When Athletics Rout Shocker; Williams Hits 28th Home Run

Defeat Today With Victory for Yankees Will Leave Fohlies in Front by .0014—Outfielder's Circuit Wallop Is His Sixth in Many Games.

By Herman Wecke.

Connie Mack, the lean manager of the Athletics, is totting around a seventh place outfit, but boys that team owns a punch. At least it did yesterday, when the Athletics pounded their way to an 8 to 4 victory over the Browns in the first game of the series. Urban Shocker, Fohlies ace, was the chief victim of the White Elephants' assault.

Not only did the drubbing break the Browns' winning streak, which had reached four straight, but with New York defeating Cleveland, it cut the Browns' hold on first place to a scant game.

However, through one of the freaks of the figures, the Browns cannot be ousted from the lead even though they are again defeated this afternoon while the Yankees win. If this comes to pass, the Fohlies will have a percentage of .5728. That show's a margin of .0014 for the local aggregation.

But to get back to that game yesterday. The Mackmen started after the Browns' splitter in the first inning and they did not let up even after he had been replaced by "Shucks" Pruett, who appeared on the scene in the seventh.

Six Hits for 20 Bases.
During Shocker's tenure in office, six rounds, the Macks pounded out only seven hits, but what hits they were. Included in the list were three home runs, a pair of doubles and a triple. Those seven swats off Shocker were good for a total of 20 bases. Pruett, who made his first appearance in quite a time, also was humphed. He gave up six hits and two runs in three rounds. However, with a little more work he will come around and be the Fohlies' main relief lance.

But there was one bright spot in the play of the Browns. And Kenneth Williams supplied that spark. In the fourth round he caught hold of one of Ed Rommel's slants and pounded it into Grand Boulevard for his 28th homer of the season. The clout gave him the major league lead once more. Incidentally it was his sixth round trip wallop on six

Martin, Floored Early in Battle, Defeats Sullivan

Featherweight Title Candidate Has Opponent Near Knockout in Final Round.

By Bert Igoe.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Vincent "Pepper" Martin won a great uphill battle against Kid Sullivan at Ebbets Field last night, gaining the decision at the end of 12 rounds of spectacular fighting. Martin had been floored in the second and third rounds with rights to the jaw, and it was not until the last few rounds that he found himself again.

The last round was a thriller. With something of a lead on points, perhaps, Sullivan was floored three times with hard rights to the jaw. Each time he took almost the full count and arose groggy and almost unable to protect himself.

Martin held back Kayo. Martin, after flooring his man three times, could have sent him down for the fatal count, but when Sullivan, game as a terrier, fell against the ropes and tried to take a fighting chance, he refused to send the right over.

He fell into a clinch and looked at the referee appealingly as if to ask him to stop it. Kid McPartland made no move, and as Martin was standing his man for a finisher, the bell rang.

It was a dramatic end to a fine, well-fought mill. Sullivan was dropped in the seventh round for a count of five and assumed the queer pose ever a man took for a count. He fell forward on his hands and, poised on his toes, he prevented his body from going to the floor.

Martin's weight was given at 132½ and Sullivan's 129.

Filipino Beats a Grandpa.

Pancho Villa, the little Filipino bantam, met Johnny Hepburn in a six-rounder that served to show the Oriental champion's wares because of the fact that Hepburn looked like Pancho's grandfather. The elder warrior was tough as shoe leather, but did not have the speed to offset the dusky one's rushes. He out-weighed his man, but he did not compare with him as a boxer.

Villa was held to the limit of six rounds because the boxing commission rules prohibit a youngster under 18 going a longer distance. With all the age privileges, Hepburn ought to be fighting 166-round bouts.

Hepburn was a badly beaten man at the end of six rounds. The decision went to Villa.

Midget Smith Wins. Midget Smith and Frankie Coster wound up the night's sport. Coster bled from a badly cut mouth from the third round on, but he got even in the ninth when he opened a cut under Smith's right eye. It was a stiff argument all the way and at the end of 12 rounds the judges said that Smith had won.

The Yankees' victory over Cleveland was marked by the sensational bunting of Bullet Joe Bush. He held the Speakerites to two hits, one a single by Jameson in the first frame and the other a triple by Wamby in the ninth. Wamby was brought home by Speaker's sacrifice fly for the only Indian score. Meusel and Ruth had a batting frolic, the former accounting for a homer and a single, and Ruth two two-baggers and a single.

Wray's Column

Still the Old Roman.

CHARLES COMISKEY, who gave St. Louis four league and one world's championship, is in a Chicago hospital, about to undergo an operation. Comiskey is 64 years old, and, despite an athletic life of long duration, is a broken man. Perhaps he will pull through, perhaps the breaks of the game will be against him.

But Comiskey doesn't worry. Hugh Fullerton, veteran baseball writer, who was in the city yesterday to give the Browns the once-over, recently visited the veteran baseball magnate in his room at the hospital. Comiskey was allowed to eat very little, and was very sick, but you can't suppress genius.

"Say, Hugh," he said weakly, "but with a twinkle, 'I just had a pouchy egg'."

Only thing I need is a third baseman. Name old Comiskey—game as on that day back in 1886 when he agreed to play Cap Anson's Chicago team. He was the only one of the world's champions, the only such series ever played in the history of the game, as far as we have been able to find out.

Toot the Bazoos, Boys.

It looks like another American victory, Bo. This time the Australasian Davis cup team is marked for the slaughter, despite the fact that Old England's experts, after viewing Patterson, Anderson and Wood play at Wimbledon, picked the Antipodeans to lift the bowl.

As a picker of winners, British experts seem to be one up on America's champion picker of failures, James J. Corbett. Patterson, the Australasian ace, and Anderson both were beaten at Seabright yesterday. Worse, the player who stopped Patterson was Hunter, who was not even ranked among the first 10 Americans.

Strictly on paper, this would mean that U. S. has 10 men able to defeat the best men among the expected challengers. Apparently the Davis cup will be too heavy for the visitors to lift, this season.

Going Up.

EVERYTHING is still going up in the fight world. Last night "Pepper" Martin, who is after the featherweight title, fought an elimination featherweight match with Kid Sullivan. Martin weighed 132½ pounds and his foe over 129. Martin's weight was one-half pound greater than the figure at which Kilbane was compelled to defend the title—122 pounds ringside.

Prices are not the only things climbing.

Hiding the Information.

UNDER the heading "Substitutions," the baseball rules provide that any recognized player of a major league ball club may be sent in to relieve another player on his team "at any stage of the game." The statement is unqualified.

Yet under the misleading heading "Delaying the game," is another rule which is opposed to the above. Section 3 of "Delaying the game" informs us that if a pitcher is sent to the relief of another he must remain in the game until the first batsman he faces has been retired or has reached first.

The second rule of course precludes the possibility, implied by the rule mentioned under "Substitutions" of relieving a pitcher before a batsman has been disposed of. This is surely making it hard for the fan to see the light. The rule appearing under "Delaying the game" has a much more evident right to be placed before the existing substitutions, where it would naturally be looked for.

In addition, the statement that substitutions may be made AT ANY STAGE OF THE GAME should be removed entirely from the rules, since literally it is not true.

Pay Up and Let Him Go?

HARRY FRAZEE wants $1,500,000 for his Red Sox club. He desires to go; the league wants him to go; Boston would almost pay to have him go. But will it pay $1,500,000?

Four years ago Frazee and his world's championship club could have been purchased for $1,250,000. The American League heads thought they had Frazee by the throat and refused to pay the figure.

It would have been cheap at the price, as events have turned out. Now Frazee still has a ball club, made up of cast-off Yankees largely, and he has sold assets netting him in all probability over half a million dollars. These include 10 players still with the Yanks, three who have passed on and one whole of a player sent to Cleveland—McInnis.

In money spent Frazee has not let go of one-fifth of his receipts, so that he must be close to the half million dollar mark in cash realized. This, deducting the

The Yankees, by taking the measure of Speaker's Indians, 6 to 1 while the Browns were losing a home run hitting tit to the Athletics, 8 to 4, have moved to within a game of the league leading St. Louisans.

The only National League contest between the Cubs and the Phillies, which was a 7 to 7 tie and then was called because of the condition of the diamond.

SISLER EXPECTED TO RETURN TO BROWNS' BATTLE FRONT SATURDAY

George Sisler, the Browns' star first sacker, who has been out of the game since last Saturday, when he was spiked by George Burns, will probably be able to return to the game Saturday, according to the announcement from the physician attending him yesterday. It will bolster the Browns greatly, even though Sisler does not immediately come out of his hitting slump. His fielding is needed.

Hank Severid will be on the shelf for probably 10 days more. Ellerbe is rounding into condition, while Dixie Davis is about ready to again take his turn on the hill.

Unless the unforeseen happens, the Browns will have their full strength for the final pennant drive.

ATHLETIC MEET FOR GIRLS OVER 16 YEARS

The Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union in carrying out the program to foster sports for girls and women will hold events open to girls of 16 years and over Sept. 18. Competitors will be restricted to two events. The events will be: 100 and 100 yard dashes, quarter-mile relay race, standing broad jump, throwing the base ball, throwing the basketball, putting the 8-pound shot and a one-half mile walk. Uniform dress must be worn by contestants.

INDIANA GOVERNOR TAKES FIRST STEPS TO PRODUCE COAL

Mines Are Being Cleaned
Preparatory to Digging So That Emergency Needs
May Be Met.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 3.—Gov. McCray, having taken his first steps to produce coal for Indiana State institutions and essential industries, today turned his attention to the conference of governors from a number of coal-producing states called to meet at his office today. The Governor, who extended invitations to six other Governors to meet with him to discuss plans for the production of coal, has received word that Gov. Davis of Ohio, Gov. Groesbeck of Michigan and the brother of Gov. Morrow of Kentucky, as his representatives, will attend the conference. The Governors of Wisconsin, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, who were invited to the conference, will be unable to attend.

Gov. Groesbeck of Michigan is understood to have a plan for settlement of the strike which will be presented to the conference for consideration.

Preparing to Mine Coal.
Meanwhile, preparations for mining coal in Indiana under State supervision got under way today. The work of cleaning up the mines, preparatory to the digging of coal was expected to take up several hours this morning, following which the actual mining was expected to start at the shafts taken over by the Governor.

The reopening of two strip mines in Clay County under the protection of 800 State soldiers is only a preliminary step toward the production of coal in sufficient quantities to meet emergency needs in Indiana, unless miners and operators speed an agreement ending the strike.

Statistics in the office of the State Mine Inspector indicate that the two mines taken over have been recorded as producing a total of 18,000 tons of coal a month. This tonnage will be sufficient to meet the immediate needs of the State institutions, it is said.

May Take Over Other Mines.
This program will necessitate the taking over of additional mines in the event a settlement of the strike is not arranged at once.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, has issued a call for a meeting of miners and operators of the central competitive field to be held in Cleveland, O., Monday. Some hope has been expressed that a settlement of the strike may be arranged at this meeting.

Government Plans for Distribution Outlined by Spencer.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Government plans for distribution of coal during the existing emergency were announced last night by Fuel Distributor Spencer after conference with Secretary Hoover and the Central Committee appointed by President Harding. The Federal organization in Washington, he said, will cover the distribution of available supplies among the railways, Federal institutions and states, while the Governors of the states will handle local supplies.

Pending completion of the Federal organization, Spencer said, three intermediate stages will ensue: first, the continuation of their normal business by the operators, then priority buyers under the Interstate Commerce Commission service order No. 22 will gradually encroach upon operators' business and, finally, coal orders placed through the Federal Fuel Distributor will absorb the entire output of the mines.

Provision has been made for the establishment of district committees to represent the Federal Distribution Administration in the producing fields with special arrangements for supplying the Great Lakes section. Detailed instructions were drawn up today for the states which included the fixing of the responsibility for the payment of all coal shipped into a state upon the Governors' committee.

District committees set up in the coal fields are to consist of a local officer representing the Federal Fuel Distributor, a representative of the Interstate Commerce Commission, a representative of the railroads and representatives of the coal operators.

Distribution of fuel for the railroads is to be gradually concentrated in the hands of a railway coal committee comprising coal buyers from the different railway groups and including W. G. O'Fallon of the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis for the Southwestern group.

State fuel committees are to report at once the consumption of coal in their territories by utilities, household users and industries, together with a list of those who should receive priorities.

Governors' committees were made entirely responsible for the prevention of profiteering and extortion in the sale and distribution of coal within their states and will distribute coal made available to them, according to their judgment.

A Man's Way

By Ruby M. Ayers

CHAPTER XXIII. A Strange Wedding.

Molly woke that morning with the sun.

Her wedding day! She went to the window and opened it wide to the dewy garden. She kissed her hair in the direction of Manor Dyke; she wondered if John were awake, too, and if he were as happy and excited as she.

She was dressed and downstairs before Jane's sleepy head had left the pillow; the morning seemed to fly.

There were the boys to dress in their new suits and clean collars. Mrs. Dangerfield to dress and to persuade that the journey to London would not kill her.

Molly kept her temper wonderfully through it all; she never had a moment in which to think of herself. It was only when Mrs. Ashford arrived that she remembered that she was the bride and should have been the center of attraction.

"The vicar is very cross with Mr. Harden for not being married here, or at least in a church," Mrs. Ashford told Molly. "But all the same I am coming up to see you safely married. Now, my dear, run along and rest, or you'll be worn out. Leave your mother to me—I'll manage her—yes, and the boys too. Take Jane with you; you must want some one to help you dress."

Molly never remembered how she got dressed at all; the time seemed to fly by in a whirl. It was only when they were all in the train and on their way to London that she began to think.

What a muddle it had been! She knew that people in Little Helpton must be talking about her unconventional wedding, but she did not care. She sat beside her mother and tried not to look at the boys; they looked so uncommonly clean and well behaved. She loved them all so much; how she would miss them in the future. She made up her mind that she would always have at least one of them staying with her at Manor Dyke.

Mrs. Dangerfield was tearful and reminiscent. "If only your dear father had been alive," she said over and over again. "I am so ill and incapable, I shall never manage to get through the ceremony without breaking down, Molly."

"Oh, yes, you will," Molly assured her cheerfully. "It will be very short, much shorter than if it had been in a church."

She was too excited to be critical; she hardly realized that she was looking her best in the simple cloth frock and black hat in which she had chosen to be married.

John Harden and the boys loved them. He wore an ordinary lounge suit and a soft felt hat, but Wharton at his elbow was immaculate in a tall coat and gray spats; he grinned at Molly nervously and shook hands.

He had never been more surprised in his life than when he had been asked to be best man.

"I haven't a friend in the world I care to ask," Harden had explained constrainedly. "And it's only a matter of form, after all; so if you don't mind—"

Wharton did not mind, but he realized that he looked far more like the groom than Harden did. It was not the least like a wedding except for Wharton's silk hat and a bunch of flowers which Mrs. Dangerfield insisted on carrying. They drove to the registrar's in taxicabs. Wharton and Harden in one, Molly and her mother in another, Jane and the boys and Mrs. Ashford packed out a third.

Harden looked out of the window into the sunny street; he was very pale; there was a little nerve jerking in his lean cheek.

"I think it's going to rain," he said, meeting Wharton's eye.

"I think it is," Wharton agreed hastily, though there was not a cloud in the sky, and they both knew it. Wharton was relieved when the drive was ended; he thought it was the rummiest way of getting married he had ever heard of; he felt rather sorry for the poor little bride. He could not understand Harden at all; from time to time he looked at him with puzzled eyes.

The registrar's office was in a side street and not particularly cheerful; a few urchins gathered round the door when they saw the cabs pulling up; they were used to weddings, but they liked to stare at the same. They commented loudly on Wharton's gray spats—they took it for granted that he was the groom.

The registrar himself was a mournful-looking person; he stared at Molly, and asked her to sit down. He told the boys to stop talking; he offered Mrs. Dangerfield a chair.

The room was dingy and smelt of old parchments; there was an empty grate filled with shavings, and a wheezy clock who coughed every two minutes with nerve-racking monotony.

And so Molly was married. Afterwards she could not remember the actual ceremony. It was so vague and unreal, but there came a moment when she awoke from her trance, and found her mother kissing her and crying, and the boys demanding to see her ring.

She raised her eyes to Harden's face. He was not looking at her, but Wharton was, and there was something in his expression that made her feel as if he wanted to run away and cry; he looked somehow "sorry," she thought.

"And so I have lost my only daughter," Mrs. Dangerfield was saying hysterically. "It seems only yesterday that she was a little mite in white frocks and a blue sash, the prettiest little thing you ever saw,

WIN BACK YOUR HUSBAND'S LOVE

By DORIS DOSCHER.

DEAR MISS DOSCHER: I have hesitated for quite a while before I could bring myself to write to you about my problem, as it seemed to be a little out of the ordinary, but when I see my life's happiness slipping away from me I just had to write to you. I feel hopeless that you can suggest any solution to my life's tangle, but when the heart is overburdened, we clutch at a straw.

My husband and I have been married for 15 years and we have always been very happy—at least, I thought so. But now that I look back I can see that there has been a lessening of the strong, intimate bonds of affection between us. I never realized how much I loved him until now it seems as if his affection is slipping from me. I have lain awake night after night trying to see just why there should be any change, and in my distraction I have tried to be frank with myself.

The mirror shows me that I am underweight, wrinkled and my hair has lost its luster, and my figure is girlish lines. I have kept house; maybe this is the reason. I have tried to be a good wife, although I always hated housework.

Oh, please, Miss Doscher, tell me what to do to make my husband the lover he once was! There is no other woman in the case now, but he has started to go out and play tennis and swim, and I do not care to do these things. At first he asked me, but now he just goes and I have cried and worried so that I have indigestion and I feel desperate.

If there is anything you can suggest I would be eternally grateful as I love my husband dearly and would make any sacrifice to keep his love.

MRS. H. S. It is very easy to read between the lines of your letter just what has spoiled what you call a duty to be an ideal situation. You have allowed your husband to advance in life, while you have made no effort to grow with him.

Of course, you do not like housework when assuming the attitude of a dutiful wife. Do you realize it is the most important occupation in life, that by putting your mind to it you can systematically bring yourself to be efficient and you will soon learn to love the humble tasks about the home? I suppose you have complained about the drudgery of your work at night until your husband has sought recreation outside the home.

It speaks well for him that he is finding pleasure in outdoor sports. I am so glad you have opened your eyes to see yourself as you really are. You can save the situation, you will win back his affections and the rest of your life will be all the sweeter and fuller for it if you will make the sacrifice. First, you must learn to get the right attitude toward your work, making the home pleasant, clean and comfortable. This is one way of winning him back, but this is not all.

You will have to be his real comrade, his pal, therefore interested in the things that interest him in exactly the same measure as you expect him to be interested in the things in the home. I infer you refused to go with him when he wanted to play tennis or swim. You realize that by not participating in these sports you have not only driven him from you, but you have refused to take advantage of what would give you back your youthfulness and thereby attract him anew.

Nights spent crying and tossing on a pillow are bound to leave wrinkles and wrinkles are bound to age the appearance greatly. Of course, massage will help a little, but the main thing for you to do is to change your mental attitude—to open your heart and mind to the big possibilities of your own negligence and lack of interest in your husband's affairs.

Take your faded, wrinkled and withered self in hand. Go through a real rejuvenating process. Learn to enjoy a cold shower every morning, followed by a brisk rub. Massage the tell-tale lines out of your face. Hold your figure in correct position, never mind what the task is that you are doing. Brush and air your hair until it gets back its lost luster. Put all sad and brooding thoughts aside, especially at your time, and behold, your old self will reappear and all of these dark thoughts will disappear!

Take every opportunity you can for outdoor sports. Avoid overfatigue at first and you will soon learn to love these things. They are your salvation, as they will accomplish for you the two things you desire—the beautification of your body and the rekindling of your husband's love.

You say you are willing to make the sacrifice. Prove it by following these rules and I guarantee your home will be laid on such a firm foundation that there will be no fear for your future happiness.

The Home Kitchen

The Authority on Home Cooking

Six Especially "Good Things" for Your Table.

EVERY housewife is on the lookout for new recipes, and especially for recipes which she can find in an ordinary cook book. Here are a few to start with that will be a real treat to you.

Soup à la Mornay.

Put one quart of freshly-made fish stock in a saucepan with one pint of milk. Add a cupful of the boiled fish flaked fine, the juice of an onion, salt, pepper and a tablespoonful each of Worcestershire sauce and minced parsley. Thicken the mixture with butter and flour rubbed to a paste. When it has thickened, remove the fire and add three tablespoonfuls of grated cheese. Serve toasted bread squares with this soup.

Lobster Cream Soup.

Boil one medium-sized lobster in salted water. When cool, remove the meat from the shell and cut it in small pieces. Put a pint of fish stock into a saucepan with a pint and a half of milk. Add a cupful of butter, the juice of an onion, pepper, salt, a tablespoonful of finely-minced celery leaves and a teaspoonful of sugar. Bring these ingredients to the boiling point and thicken them with butter and flour blended. When the soup is smoothly blended and free from lumps add the lobster and serve. Great care should be taken not to scorch the milk. It is safer to make this soup in a double boiler. The soup may be made of a good brand of canned lobster if the fresh is unavailable.

Savory Cauli's Tongue.

Parboil two tongues in salted water until tender, then cool, skin and trim them in the usual way. Wash and stone a cupful of ripe olives. Put a can of tomatoes into a saucepan with a sliced onion, a bay leaf, celery tops, a chopped pepper and a little parsley. Simmer the mixture gently for a half hour, thicken with a little cornstarch. Add the olives to the sauce, then cut the tongues in serving pieces and add them. Serve, garnished with croquettes and rice croquettes.

Asparagus Fritters.

Cut the tips from a freshly boiled bunch of asparagus or drain and cut up a can of the tips. Make a good fritter batter, adding a dessertspoonful of sugar, the asparagus tips, a little salt, pepper and the juice of an onion. Fry the fritters in the usual manner and serve hot on a napkin with tartar sauce. This makes a good luncheon dish to use with cold meat.

Pumpkin Muffins.

Sift together one and a half cupfuls of flour, a tablespoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of salt and four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Work in two tablespoonfuls of shortening, then an egg beaten with three quarters of a cupful of milk and a small cupful of boiled and mashed pumpkin. Beat well and pour into hot, greased muffin pans. Bake 20 minutes.

Sunset Eggs.

Peel, chop and fry one large Spanish onion in two ounces of butter, but do not brown it. When cooked, lift the onion with a skimmer and place on a plate to cool. Beat two eggs with a teaspoonful of baking powder, pepper, salt, a teaspoonful of sugar and a glassful of water. Pour the eggs into the frying pan the onion was fried in, add the onion, blend together, then cook like an omelette. When set, slip under the broiler to brown lightly instead of turning, then serve on a hot plate.

One egg beaten.

One teaspoon salt.

One cup scalded milk, cooled.

Two tablespoonfuls sugar.

Grated rind of half a lemon.

One and one-half cups seeded raisins.

Three tablespoonfuls of butter or shortening.

Dissolve the yeast in the quarter cup of lukewarm water with the one tablespoonful of sugar. Beat into the yeast one and a half cups of flour and beat until smooth. Cover and set in a warm place to rise for 50 minutes. Beat to a cream the butter, sugar and egg and add with the balance of the flour and beat to the dough. Work the dough until smooth. Place in a greased bowl, cover and set in a warm place to rise until double in size—about one hour. Turn out on a floured board and shape into buns or fancy twists. Let rise until light, about one hour. Bake in hot oven 25 minutes.

FRENCH RAISIN BUNS

ONE cake yeast.

One-quarter cup lukewarm water.

One tablespoonful sugar.

Four cups sifted flour.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

How Virginia's Bravery Helped to Lead Rome to Freedom.

VIRGINIA was born in Rome about 215 B. C., nearly 50 years before the country became a republic. Her father was Virginius, a Roman centurion of the army, who was a staunch, brave plebeian. She is known in Roman history as the child of the sole authority of the state in the hands of 10 commissioners, called the Decemviri. The most cruel of these men, who turned out to be heartless rulers, was Appius Claudius. He greatly hated the people over whom he ruled, and they knew his house as one noted for drunken revels.

Virginia, who was a beautiful child, passed this house each day in going to and from school, and her charms attracted the wicked Appius. The only way he could get her into his power was by abducting one of his parasites to seize her and claim her for a slave. This he set about to do.

Virginia was dragged before the Decemviri, while the people cried out with indignation. Appius decided to wait for the father of Virginia to return from camp before going ahead with his plans, because the father came his pleas were in vain, and the child was declared to be the slave of the freedman of Appius.

When the grief-stricken Appius heard the verdict he asked that his might have a word said with his daughter. Virginia, who had always been taught by the honor-loving father that death was better than dishonor, knew what he wanted to say to her. She knew that there would be no more playing in the open fields, no more happy hours with her father.

Kissing her dear father tenderly, Virginia closed her eyes and her lips trembled. Her last words were: "Hurry, father!"

With a cry: "There is no way but this to keep thee free!" the brave man raised a knife which he had taken from a butcher stall nearby, and with his own hand took the life of his daughter rather than see her a slave of Appius.

Rome was so impressed by the brave way in which one of its school-girls had met death, and so outraged against Appius that all of the resentment which had been smoldering burst into fire. A short time later the people struck for freedom and the glory of Rome. The board of Decemviri was abolished. Claudius committed suicide to escape the anger of the people, and the old republican government was restored.

Had it not been for the little martyr, Virginia, Rome would no doubt have gone on under her yoke of servitude. It was for her to teach her people that honor was sweeter than life.

FROZEN FRUIT ROLL

7 egg yolks.
2 cups of boiling milk.
1 cup of sugar.
1 teaspoon orange extract.
1/4 cup thick cream.
Sun-Maid seeded raisins.
(Soaked in cider for 12 hours.)

MIX the well beaten egg yolks with the boiling milk, sugar and orange extract. Stir until thick and add the thick cream, cool and freeze. Line the bottom of an ice cream mold with the raisins, cover with the frozen cream and fill the mold with alternate layers of cream and raisins. Cover mold tightly and pack in salt and ice for three hours. In serving cut the frozen roll in slices and pour over the following hot sauce:

2 squares unsweetened chocolate.
2 cups light brown sugar.
1/4 cup rich milk.
1/4 teaspoon lemon extract.
1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Melt the chocolate in a buttered saucepan set in hot water. Add the brown sugar, mix well and add the butter and milk. Cook until it forms a soft ball when a little is dropped in cold water. Flavor with lemon and vanilla extracts. This will harden when poured over the frozen fruit roll.

Drowning

First Aid Methods

By DR. CHARLOTTE C. WEST.

SUMMER time is swimmin' time. The beaches are full, so is the old swimmin' hole up country, and so drowning accidents are not uncommon. Every one frequenting water resorts should have some knowledge of rendering first aid to those overcome while bathing or swimming.

The prone pressure method (Shaffer's method) is regarded as the best for resuscitating victims of drowning. First, however, remove all water, mucus and so forth from the patient's nostrils and mouth, keep his face toward the wind; rip off his clothing to expose his upper trunk and give several smart slaps to his chest with your open palm.

Should these things not revive him give hot drinks. If the heart is weak a cup of aromatic spirit of ammonia or water is a good stimulant.

Repeat 12 to 15 times.

Apply friction to the chest, rub the back with a towel, rub the arms and legs with a towel. As soon as the patient is revived, turn him on his side, and if he is weak a cup of aromatic spirit of ammonia or water is a good stimulant.

Repeat 12 to 15 times.

HOW TO KEEP ALTRUISM ALIVE

By A. McKeever.

Much can be done to keep the spirit of altruism alive in your growing child until he arrives at that age when the selfish instinct will awaken with active emotional desire. Keep this tiny spark smoldering until it comes to its day of a brighter glow.

The medium or average for the genuine awakening of the altruistic instinct is 25. And by the time that age is reached many a soul has been so completely submerged with selfishness that he is unable to flounder to the level of a generous ideal of his own.

Your child's altruism can be kept alive partly through his play. He must learn to play not only with others, but at times for others. He can be taught to give others their turn, to see that those smaller than himself have their share in the games, to do his part in preparing and in caring for the playground.

and in the fair and just management of the games. Indeed, the well directed play activities of a group of children call for continuous elements of altruistic training.

Altruism is easily taught through the industrial discipline of children. First of all, we must teach our young to regard common industry as a means whereby the masses are fed, clothed and housed and their many necessary wants supplied.

This common work on the part of the young—that is, just enough of it to suit the age and the needs of character development—may be regarded as a kind of generous and patriotic duty one owes to mankind.

Second, the altruistic motive with industrial training of the young can be awakened through the ideal of learning to do some one thing well and thus having promise of popular approval for faithful performance. Make service rather than wages the early motive of your son's industry and the wages will increase the faster.

Altruism may be taught through social experience. The tendency of youth is merely to indulge himself sensually when he first sets out to mix with the young crowd. He is willing to take far more than his share of the "good things" and the "good times" as he sees them. Ask him to stop and look about and he will observe others of his age likewise contending for their "rights" socially.

Thus, lead him to catch the idea of there being such a thing as social justice. That is, others also deserve social opportunity and some one should accord it to them. Finally, perhaps your child will see that social pleasure is a general need of all the young.

Religious altruism is the easiest and perhaps the most essential form to inculcate in behalf of your growing child. In order to be fair and just to the demands of his unfolding nature, and in order to meet one of the most urgent demands of social and racial progress, seek to have your child habitually related to the church or the religious society of your choice.

Not a Marrying Man

By WINIFRED BLACK.

THE quiet little woman is worried. She's been in love with the same man for 10 years, and now she's in love with another one, and she doesn't know what on earth to do about it. They're regular matches, hanging out every day and she told me the whole story—such a queer little story! It would be funny if it wasn't so pathetic and it would be pathetic if it wasn't so funny.

"Joe and I have been pals for so long," she said, "that I can't think of life without Joe, he's so thoughtful and kind and good-natured, and so full of fun and we have so many jokes together, silly little jokes—10 years old, most of them. And Joe knows what kind of plays I like to see and what sort of books to give me for my birthday and the bride I prefer—he even helps me choose my hats, and sometimes he comes up to the flat and brings some chicken or some lamb chops and some peas, just like a married man, and we set supper together, and have the coziest time.

"And when I was ill five years ago in the hospital, he kept my room full of flowers and sent me such lovely things to read when I was getting well. And he takes me to drive and he tells me all his business affairs, and I give him my advice and we really are devoted to each other.

"Here's this other man."

"Marry? Oh, I used to think so—years ago! But Joe is not a marrying man—he doesn't like to feel tied, and, of course, I wouldn't try to harness him down for anything. I think women are terrible who do that, don't you? They're regular leeches, hanging on and thinking of nobody but themselves.

"But now here's this other man, and I like him and he likes me and I know Joe wouldn't like it a bit.

"Marry the new man? Well, you see, he did speak of marrying, but he found out about Joe, and since then he's as nice as he can be, but he never says anything about marrying, and I'm getting tired of it, and I'm no younger than I used to be and I'd sort of like to get settled. What would you do about it?"

And I could see that the quiet little woman was really worried—a good deal about the new man and a little about herself, but most of all about Joe.

She does hate to hurt Joe.

And she's so modest and so clever, and so advanced and so independent, too.

Isn't it strange how all the new theories in the world don't seem to change human nature one bit?

Some Are Good Fellows.

Men who are "not marrying men" act just the same when they make love to the new sort of woman as they did in grandmother's time when one of them kept Great-aunt Sarah waiting for him for years, and then stepped out and married her niece, the very week after she got home from boarding school.

"Not a marrying man"—well, yes, I know a lot of men who are not marrying men, and some of them are good fellows, too. But what on earth any woman who is a "marrying woman" wants them around for, I simply cannot imagine—can you? As friends, brothers-in-law, uncles, brothers—they're all right—but as admirers, no, I thank you!

I wonder what Joe would do if he thought the quiet little woman was going to marry someone else. Do you know, if I were in her place, I believe I'd send him the news—and see.

PARIS.—It is called a rest gown, though how anyone could rest in it without crushing some of the lovely embroidery or getting all tangled up in bead tassels is a mystery yet to be solved. However, the garment is a bewitching thing of gray and green georgette. The lower portion is a pair of ankle-length Turkish trousers of gray, with a strip of jade green embroidery down the side. The upper part is a long coat of embroidered jade georgette. Kimono sleeves fall in points to the knees, and to the points are attached huge jade cabochons from which dangle big tassels of jade and pearl.

PARIS.—There is a reason for the popularity of the hat with the upturned brim, even though it gives the summer sun full play. The reason is that an upturned brim is an excellent excuse for a sun shade and sun shades are more enticing than usual this season. Curiosity Takes Away Peter's Appetite

By Thornton W. Burgess

His curiosity is great That forces appetite to wait.

—Peter Rabbit.

WHAT would happen next to Sooty the Chimney Swift? That is what Sooty himself wanted to know, but he didn't want to know it much more than did Peter Rabbit. You see, Peter had seen the accident to Sooty on the Big River and had watched Sooty flop, flop straight to shore and into the hands of Farmer Brown's Boy. He had watched Farmer Brown's Boy gently pick Sooty up and start away across the Green Meadows with him.

Peter followed for a short distance. He was curious, was Peter. He wanted to know what would become of Sooty. But he didn't dare follow very far. He felt that it was best to keep away from Farmer Brown's house. He hadn't forgotten the lesson he had learned when he had been kept a prisoner after being caught in Farmer Brown's garden.

Peter caught a glimpse of a small black form that darted away.

mer Brown's Boy what had become of Sooty. For a few minutes Farmer Brown's boy stood still, looking at something in his hands. Then he gently tossed something into the air. Peter caught a glimpse of a small black form that darted away and circled high in the air. A moment later it disappeared into the chimney.

"It was Sooty!" cried Peter. "As sure as I live, it was Sooty!"

Peter was right. It was Sooty. Farmer Brown's Boy had very carefully examined Sooty when he had picked him up on the shore of the Big River, to see if he was hurt. Finally he had made up his mind that the only trouble with Sooty was the soaking his feathers had received. So he had taken Sooty home and there he had kept him all night while those feathers dried out. When he had set him free Sooty had darted away, as well as ever. Peter watched until both Sooty and Mrs. Sooty came out of the chimney. Then he remembered his appetite.

-- American genius perfects a simple Hairpin that stays in!

FOR many years most of the Hairpins worn by American women, have been of foreign manufacture. And a hairpin has been—just a hairpin. Dossens in the hair, on the floor, in the car—everywhere!

Now, thanks to American genius, a new day has dawned—a day of real hairpin efficiency, added hairdress smartness, plus comfort—qualities not heretofore found in hairpins.

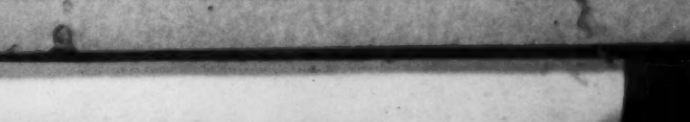

Sta-Rite is the name of the new Hairpin. It never hangs half way out. Nor does it drop out. Because, its principle—that of stress and compression—is scientifically correct. The Sta-Rite holds the hair in place—lightly but firmly—always! Yet it inserts and may be taken out as easily as the old, straight type. And without pulling the hair, or your hair out.

In striking contrast with any hairpin you have ever known or worn, the Sta-Rite engages the hair at the points of the pin, beneath, instead of at the surface of the hair. Hence it does not pinch the hair at the surface—the conspicuous way of the old type hairpin. On the contrary, its generous loop blends in with the hair, more invisibly. The effect is smarter—less of hairpin, and more of the hairdress. A most welcome refinement, surely!

— so tomorrow! Start the day right. Dress your hair with the Sta-Rite.

KIND WORDS FOR US YANKS.

HERE are two compliments from widely different sources for Yankee valor:

In 1914 R. H. Davis, editor of Munsey's Magazine, was visiting G. K. Chesterton, the English writer, at the latter's home near London. Davis was standing with his back to the fireplace when his host entered the room.

"You astonish me, Mr. Davis," said Chesterton. "I didn't know an American ever turned his back to British fire."

In Paris a column of our troops marched under the Arc de Triomphe in the parade in honor of the French unknown soldier. At the conclusion of the ceremony, the commanding officer approached Marshal Foch for instructions.

"Do we go back, Marshal, the way we came?" he asked. "It's a one-way arch."

With a smile the great Frenchman made answer.

"No, sir. The American army never goes back!"
